FARMER'S NEW CASH SYSTEM.
ALL GOODS AT WHOLESALE PRICES.
A great social as well as a commercial change, the influence of which on household economy it is idle to attempt to gainsay. This system of prompt ready-money payments, so successfully inaugurated here by Messrs. Farmer and Company, has long since made itself felt throughout the United Kingdom, and with extraordinary force in the great metropolis. It has needed no advocacy there, the disposition to take advantage of its benefits pervading each and every class. Ladies of rank and others of high social standing have vied to patronise it (not that it needed patronage); the middle classes have hailed its advent gladly, while to the very considerable number of families with but small fixed incomes it has proved an incalculable boon.
Hitherto in Sydney there has been abundant opportunity to purchase drapery goods of a certain character at prompt net cash prices, but only of late has the opportunity been extended to really first-class articles. Already it is surprising to notice the eagerness with which the Sydney public has accepted the change. The advantages the new system offers can at any time be demonstrated by paying a visit to Victoria House. In the prices in each department is the change apparent, causing many, at first disposed to view it with no great favour, quickly to alter their opinions, and agree to accept the benefits it is ready to confer.
Victoria House, August 23, 1879.

TRICKETT'S INTERNATIONAL HOTEL, corner of Pitt and King streets.

THE OFFICIAL CATALOGUE.
For public information it is hereby notified that:—
The Commission has no interest in any publication but the "Official Catalogue," for which Greville's Telegram Company, of 305, George-street, Sydney, are the sole advertising agents.
No advertisement will be inserted in the Official Catalogue, except those received through Greville's Telegram Company.
No book, or pamphlet of any kind containing advertisements, will be permitted to be sold within the Exhibition-building or grounds except the "Official Catalogue," and any sectional parts which may be issued by any particular Court.
It has been decided further to make an important concession to which attention is particularly directed. As heretofore announced, the Catalogue will be Demy 8vo. in size, and be divided into three or four principal sections, of each of which a first edition of 20,000 copies will be issued.
There will be a further section consisting of occasional parts for Live Stock Shows, Wool, Grain, &c., of which due notice will be given.
PRICE OF THE CATALOGUE, 6d EACH SECTION.
Instead however of requiring advertisers to pay for the insertion of their advertisement in each section, it has been determined to
CHARGE ONE RATE ONLY
FOR ADVERTISEMENTS TO APPEAR IN ALL THE FIRST THREE OR FOUR SECTIONS.
Thus 20,000 copies of each section of the Catalogue will be issued as a first edition, equivalent to 60,000 or 80,000 in all, whilst the contract with the advertiser will end.
The following are the prices to be charged:—
For a full page ... £12 (to appear in 4 sections)
Should a Second Edition be published, a further charge will be made to those who wish their advertisements continued.
AUGUSTUS MORRIS, Secretary.

The Ben Ledi, from Hongkong, is a steamer, owned by George Thompson and Co., of Leith, and has for some time past found profitable employment in the China trade. She brings a full cargo, a large portion of which is for Melbourne and New Zealand. The ship left Hongkong on the 11th August, and the passage throughout has been remarkable for the faintness of the winds and the mildness of the weather. St. Matthias's Island was passed on the 24th August, and the vessel came a course to the eastward of New Ireland, and thence close past the eastern side of the Louisiades Archipelago. Sighted Moreton Island on the 1st instant, at 6 p.m., and since then had S.S.E. and N.W. winds. Notwithstanding that some hard steaming has had to be performed, the ship has made a splendid run, and has arrived in excellent order.

The Kiama (s.) left Moruya on Tuesday, September 2nd, at 8.10 p.m., passed Ulladulla at midnight, Cape St. George at 2.30 a.m. on the 3rd, arrived at the company's wharf, Sydney, at 1.30 p.m. Experienced light westerly winds and fine weather throughout the passage. The cargo consists of 374 cheeses, 7 cases eggs, 17 sacks bacon, 2 packages and 1 cask lard, 7 kegs butter, 2 trunks 2 boxes 95 bundles wire, 2 pigs, and sundries.

The Fiona (s.), crossed the Clarence bar at 9.15 a.m. on September 2nd, and entered Sydney Heads at 2.45 p.m. on the 3rd. Experienced moderate N.E. winds to Port Macquarie, thence light south winds, with fine weather throughout. Cargo: 3304 sacks sugar, and 77 hogsheads rum.

The Diamantina (s.) left the Manning River at 9 a.m. on the 2nd instant and arrived in Sydney at 5 a.m. on the 3rd. Experienced fine weather and westerly winds throughout the passage. Cargo: 784 bags maize, 20 bags oysters, 125 hides, 4 casks tallow, 140 pigs, 94 cases eggs, 17 coops poultry, and sundries.

The Lyee-Moon (s.) cleared Port Phillip Heads on the 1st instant, at 5.35 p.m.; passed Wilson's Promontory on the 3rd, at 2.25 a.m.; and entered Sydney Heads on the 3rd, at 7.30 p.m. Experienced light northerly airs and calms, with smooth water to arrival.

The Esk (s.) left Launceston for Sydney yesterday, at 2 p.m.

The ship Dryad, from New York, brings a general cargo of American goods. She sailed on the 14th May, with fine weather, which continued through the N.E. trades; crossed the Equator on the 22nd June, in longitude 29° W., and after experiencing moderate S.E. trades had W. and S.W. winds to the Cape of Good Hope, the meridian of which was crossed on the 22nd July, in 40° S.; thence had moderate winds to longitude 70° E., made on the 9th August; between that date and the 18th had four successive hard gales, with a high sea; passed Cape Otway on the 27th August, and had fine weather on the coast.

The John Duthie, from London, took her departure on the 27th May from the Start Point, with a fresh S.W. breeze. West and S.W. winds continued to the N.E. trades, which were picked up in latitude 29° N., on the 7th June; they were very good throughout. Passed to the eastward of Cape de Verde Islands, and lost the trades in latitude 8° N., on the 16th June. Crossed the Equator on the 23rd June, in latitude 23° W.; experienced fresh S.E. trades, taken in latitude 1° S., and lost them in latitude 24 S. on the 5th July; and from thence had strong southerly winds to the meridian of the Cape of Good Hope, which was crossed on the 25th July, in latitude 39° S. Ran the easting down in 40° S., with variable winds, mostly from S.W. to N.W. Sighted the Island of St. Paul on the 9th August, after which adverse winds opposed the ship's progress to a considerable extent. Sighted Cape Otway 26th August; thence had nothing but light winds and calms. When in Bass's Straits on the 29th had to lay the main top-sail to the mast in consequence of a fog, which lasted 30 hours. Spoke the ship Haughton Tower from Liverpool, bound to Melbourne, on the 20th June, in latitude 5° N. and 22° W.

The steamer Phœbe, loaded with sheep, bound from Newcastle to Sydney, collided with the steam collier Saxonia, bound to Newcastle, at 6.30 a.m. yesterday morning, near the southern breakwater at the Hunter River heads. Both steamers are seriously damaged. The Phœbe returned to port at Newcastle.

The second visit of the Orient steamer, John Elder, to this port, makes a most important addition to our population, and a heavy consignment of 5000 packages of cargo, inclusive of exhibits for the International Exhibition. There was a most animated scene of friendly greeting on board, as the Prince of Wales (s.) with a large number of friends of the passengers, met them below Garden Island, yesterday afternoon. After a slight detention the ship steamed alongside the Commissariat berth, at the Circular Quay, which had been secured by Messrs. Gilchrist, Watt, and Co. for the ship. The voyage commenced at London, on the 16th July, and fine weather lasted till embarking the last batch of passengers at Plymouth; she sailed thence on the 17th, at 3.30 p.m., and had moderate breezes and fine weather till reaching St. Vincent, where she took a supply of fuel, and stayed 24 hours. Leaving St. Vincent on July 25, at 3.35 p.m., she had moderate north-east trades to the line, and from there to the Cape, strong winds and heavy seas—so much so, that the ship laboured excessively. On reaching the Cape, on August 8, at 11.10 p.m., the weather was unpropitious for coaling, and in consequence, sixteen hours passed before 470 tons were taken in. On August 10 she left the Cape at 2.45 p.m. and had strong westerly gales and a very high sea, between 33 and 40° south, and afterwards strong north-east gales had to be contended with till arriving at Adelaide, on the 28th ultimo, at noon. After disembarking passengers and discharging cargo; she left on the following day, at 10 a.m., and entered Port Phillip Heads at 10.45 p.m. on the 31st. The average speed from the Cape of Good Hope to Melbourne was 13½ knots per hour. The ship left Hobson's Bay on the 1st instant, at 4.30 p.m., and cleared Port Phillip Heads at 8 p.m.; had light winds and fine weather all the way round. She arrived at Sydney at 4 p.m. on the 3rd. One death took place—viz., Mrs. Elliott, a saloon passenger—from natural causes. All the rest of the passengers have enjoyed excellent health, and the number originally started with has not decreased, as one of the passengers gave birth to a daughter shortly after leaving Cape Town. The ship is still under the command of Captain Cooper, and the officers are nearly the same as on the last voyage, the exception being that Dr. M. P. O'Leary is the surgeon. Mr. Brown, who left here as acting commander of the Chimborazo (s.), and made the fastest homeward passage on record, being but thirty-eight days six hours, is chief officer of the John Elder. Mr. St. George is the purser. The Sultan is the next steamer of this line, which is advertised to sail from London on the 28th July. She will be followed by the Chimborazo, Cuzco, Aconcagua, and then the new ship Orient. The latter is to leave for Australia on the 3rd November.

In the Import markets there were a few sales for trade orders. A firmer feeling prevailed in breadstuffs, £12 5s. asked for Adelaide country brands, and 5s. 9d. for Adelaide wheat, but no business done at the latter price through telegrams from South Australia state that the market there is firm at 5s. 8d. Castor oil very firm at 4s. 3d. for trade quantities, and 4s. for China. In liquors there was some business done at late rates. Leading brands of bulk ale are hardening, as late advices from England indicate that there will be very little coming forward before the new brew is to hand. Salt is firm at 90s. for coarse Liverpool on the spot, and to arrive. Galvanized iron is looking up, £27 asked for trade quantities of Gospel Oak, and an equal advance wanted on second brands to arrive. The demand for shipping lots of maize was active, and prices firm at 2s. 5d. to 2s. 7d. The Darling Harbour sales of produce were well attended this morning. The market opened very firm for good qualities of hay, and the quantity coming forward not being large the prices obtained were considerably in advance of those ruling at last sales. Best samples of oaten hay, in trusses, moved at from 6s. to 6s. 11d. per cwt.; ditto, in bales, 6s. 3d. to 6s. 9d.; inferior parcels ranging from 5s. 3d. upwards. Best oaten and wheaten, mixed, realized from 5s. 6d. to 6s. The sales of lucerne were influenced considerably by the low prices ruling on the wharfs, and even prime samples were not easy of disposal, the top price accorded being 3s. 10d., while medium lots were scarcely salable at from 2s. 9d. to 3s. Straw was somewhat dull of sale, but as the quantity was not large late quotations were maintained, best lots fetching up to 3s. 4d.; inferior and damaged, from 1s. 6d. upwards. Potatoes were in good demand, and readily found buyers at from 6s. to 6s. 7d. for prime samples, and lower rates for inferior. A plentiful supply of firewood was quoted at about previous rates, from 9s. to 11s. 6d. per ton being the prices obtained for billet wood, and from 11s. to 13s. for bundle. A sale of live pigs and calves took place at the Corporation yards this morning. Prices were—Pigs, 14s. 6d. to 27s. 6d.; calves, 7s. 6d. to 22s.

Wool sales were held to-day by Messrs. Harrison, Jones, and Devlin, Messrs. Mort and Co., Mr. Bridge, Messrs. Maiden, Hill, and Clark, and Mr. Barker. The catalogues were meagre, and prices decidedly easier, but did not exhibit such a decline as there was in sheepskins. Burry and seedy lots were very unsalable, and on all descriptions there was an average decline of about 1d. per lb.

A meeting of the creditors of Messrs. W. S. Fell and Co. was held this afternoon. The principal of the firm, who has returned by the mail steamer, made a statement as to his bona-fides respecting execution of the orders he had received, and the goods now in transit from America. It was unanimously resolved that the assets in the estate now in Sydney should be handed back to the firm, so as to allow their business to go on as before.

Under the heading, "A Bankers' Battle," the Rock gives the following anecdote, in which the two greatest (pecuniary) potentates of the age were concerned, on what it regards as good authority:—At the time of the last great commercial crisis, when the money market was just beginning to show signs of "tightness," Messrs. Rothschild lodged a large sum (£300,000, we believe) in Lord Overstone's bank (then Jones, Lloyd, and Co.). This seemed so strange a procedure that it aroused the noble lord's suspicions, and he bid his cashier put the money away in a parcel by itself and await further orders, which was done accordingly. Meanwhile money grew more and more in demand, and just when the pressure was at its height Messrs. Rothschild drew a cheque for the £300,000, hoping, no doubt, thereby to embarrass their puissant rival. So far from that, Lord Overstone had the exquisite satisfaction of returning the parcel of money precisely in the state in which he had received it some months before. It was such a bagatelle that he had not even cared to make use of it.

The Sydney Morning Herald.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 4, 1879.

It requires a bold man in this age of the world to maintain that ignorance is a smaller evil than the instruction which is given apart from moral and religious training; but this is what Archbishop VAUGHAN teaches in the new Pastoral which we published yesterday. Educated criminals, the Archbishop maintains, are worse than uneducated criminals; and his argument, if we understand it aright, is that secular education tends to increase, not to diminish crime. A somewhat similar doctrine to this was announced by a Protestant clergyman in a Protestant Synod a few months ago. This clergyman declared that secular education in itself gave a child more facilities for doing evil, and inculcated that selfishness which is the root of all sin. That secular instruction furnishes a man with powers which may be abused for evil, and even for criminal purposes, may be admitted. Without reading a child can have no access to the vast stores of pernicious literature that are to be found in the world, without writing a man is not likely to commit a forgery, and without arithmetic a man may have smaller powers of mischievous calculation than he would have with it, although the latter does not necessarily follow. Instruction in any branch of knowledge may, however, furnish people with facilities for doing wrong as well as for doing right. A knowledge of banking has often enabled persons the more successfully to perpetrate fraud, and a knowledge of anatomy has occasionally helped criminals to commit murder with impunity. Even biblical and ecclesiastical teaching itself may be used for the meanest, as well as for the noblest of purposes, but all this amounts to nothing more than the saying that the best of things are liable to be abused. It does not follow that educated criminals are worse than uneducated criminals, because it sometimes turns out that educated men are furnished with facilities for committing species of crime which uneducated men are not furnished with. Nor does it follow that because crime is now and then committed by persons who have received school instruction that the instruction itself was the cause of the crime.

It would be a strange thing indeed if the elementary education which is given in the common school could be shown to be a source of criminality. At the foundation of such an education lies a knowledge of the language we speak, the power of reading, the ability to write with accuracy and ease, and that cultivation of the taste and the judgment which is the result of familiarity with the best books and authors. The recipient of such an education is qualified for taking his part in some honest calling, and for fulfilling his duties to society and his country with enlightened views and for intelligent ends. It would be a strange thing indeed if the natural effect of all this were to swell the lists of criminals. A suspicion that it did so was common enough a century ago. No less a sage than Dr. JOHNSON maintained that so far as the instruction of the masses went, both morals and policy dictated a nicer inquiry than could be very soon or very easily made. Views of this kind, however, have long ceased to prevail, even among those who care least for the instruction of the masses.

There are few who will not hear with surprise that the secular instruction which is given in common schools is a more fruitful source of criminality than ignorance itself. The public will be still more surprised at the illustration which is taken from the common schools of the United States. Dr. VAUGHAN tells us—and he quotes American statistics to show—that the common schools of America are the seed-plots of crime. In the public school States, he tells us, "there is one native born white criminal to every 1084 native white inhabitants, whilst the private school States had one to every 6670, being six criminals in the public school States to one in the private school States." The lesson drawn from this is that public school instruction has a direct tendency to produce criminals. The lesson would not follow from the facts if the statistics given could be relied upon, unless it could be shown that there are no special causes in the public school States to account for the larger statistics of criminality. Besides, it must not be forgotten that the giving of instruction, apart from religious and moral training, has not been the custom in the United States. As a rule, religious teaching in that country has been inseparably bound up with secular teaching. It has long been the usage in the States for religious exercises to form a part of the daily curriculum of the public school. While avoiding sectarian education, the people of the United States have, with some few exceptions, avoided a purely secular education. The founders of the common school system of America started with the assumption that moral and religious training was an essential part of the instruction of the day school, and such being the case, no illustration of the effects of a system from which special religious instruction is eliminated can be drawn from the public school statistics of America.

Lest, however, it might be supposed, that the effect of the common school system of the United States has a tendency to promote criminality, we will make one or two quotations from some of the latest prison statistics of the States. These statistics are by no means complete. By the authorities of some of the prisons, no information is given as to the effect of illiteracy on crime. From Massachusetts for example, it is simply reported that strong drink causes four-fifths of the crime committed, and this shows that any excess of criminality there may be, is not to be traced to common school instruction. So far however as statistics are given, they tend to destroy the position maintained in the Archbishop's latest Pastoral. For example in the State of Maine, which is one of the public school States mentioned by Dr. VAUGHAN, and one of the States in which educated criminals are said to abound, the percentage of prisoners who were virtually illiterate is given as 99, the percentage having a fair common school education was 1. In Vermont, another of the public school States, the percentage of illiterate prisoners was 65, that of prisoners having a fair common school education 35. In South Carolina, one of the private school States mentioned by Dr. VAUGHAN, all the prisoners returned were illiterates. In a country in which common school education is so widely spread the number of educated criminals might be expected to be larger than in countries where common schools are comparitively unknown. The slightest glance, however, at the criminal statistics of the United States will be sufficient to show the weakness of the Archbishop's reasoning. Scarcely a State in the Union reports other than a small number of prisoners who had received a superior education. The highest proportion of criminals of this class are in Kansas and New York which report 7 per cent. In twenty out of the thirty-five States from which returns are given, not a single prisoner had received a superior education. The general effect of common school training on crime may be gathered from such states as Alabama, Arkansas, California, and Florida, which stand in alphabetic order, as the first four on the list. In the first of these States the per centage of criminal illiterates was 91, that of prisoners who had been taught in common schools, 8. In the second, the illiterates were 92 per cent.; persons who had been taught in the schools, 5 per cent. In the third, the illiterates numbered 86 per cent., while those who had been taught in the common school were 14 per cent.; and in the fourth, the number of illiterates were 77 per cent., while those who had received a fair common school education numbered only 21 per cent. It is true that there are exceptions to the rule. In New York, for example, the prisoners who had received a common school education were in excess of those who had not, a circumstance it need hardly be said which is traceable to the fact that New York is supplied with the largest number of foreign importations, and with importations of persons who in all probability have received any training they possess in Denominational schools. Whether this be so or not, the hastiest glance at the criminal statistics of the United States is, as we have already intimated, sufficient to dissipate the notion that the States are indebted to their common schools for the larger proportion of their criminal population.

It is not thus that the best American writers speak of the common schools of their country. "If," says Mr. ADAMS, in perhaps the best work that has yet been written on the American school system, "the work to be done is mighty, there is a mighty energy at the head of the system as those who love America best are glad to know. Every movement is forward. In the ultimate accomplishment of the destiny of the Republic, the usefulness and success of its education system, and its influence as a first measure in the development of national power and prosperity are unlimited." Such is the manner in which American writers of the highest repute speak of American common schools, and from their dicta it would be difficult to dissent. No one would contend that common school education is everything. It is as easy to over-estimate as to under-estimate the value of instruction; but the doctrine that common schools are the nurseries of prisons and gaols, attempts too much. Such a doctrine is not according to sense, nor does it harmonise with facts. The legitimate effect of common school teaching is in exactly the opposite direction. Although as it has been truly said, "it does not cover the whole field of character and conduct, it does most manifestly touch some portions of it. It adds, for instance, to the consciousness of power and faculty, and this increases the invaluable and far-reaching quality of self-respect. Hence, even if a great effort to provide our people with the instruments of knowledge did not reduce the number of criminals, it would still improve the tone of those who are not criminals." This is the doctrine about public school instruction that is now all but universally believed, and, such being the case, it will require much stronger arguments than those which are employed in the ARCHBISHOP's Pastoral to prove either that secular education promotes criminality, or that the morals of the community would be protected by an exchange of a private for a public school system.

The town of Parramatta is in one respect fortunate; it has attracted to itself a larger share of Government institutions than any other municipality in the colony. It has three lunatic asylums, with 826 patients; an erysipelas hospital, with 151 patients; a benevolent asylum, with 237 inmates; a gaol, with 244 prisoners in confinement; and two orphanages, with 598 children. This makes a total of 2056 persons maintained at the expense of the State, together with all the officials required for their protection and control, for a town which had only 6103 inhabitants last census, including the inmates of all the Government institutions. Perhaps the salubrity of Parramatta and its contiguity to the capital, and the whole two hundred thousand inhabitants of the metropolitan area, may account for its power of attracting the charities of the State, although suspicious politicians may insinuate another reason. The electorate of Parramatta has only 1230 names of voters on the rolls, and yet returns two members to Parliament. Central Cumberland, of which it is the nucleus, has only 2177 electors on the rolls, and has also the command of two Legislative seats. Here are four votes in the Assembly, cheaper in point of numbers at the ballot-box than any other four that can be concentrated on any particular town in the colony, and usually very handy when critical issues arise in Parliament. What Government could help giving due weight to these accidental advantages, and in the distribution of its patronage, taking care not to estimate this potent constituency below its merits? Be that as it may, there is one peculiarity about these public charities not generally observed. In the three lunatic asylums, in the erysipelas hospital, in the gaol and in the Benevolent Asylum sectarian distinctions obtain no recognition, but the State dispenses its bounty equally, and irrespective of creed or nationality. In the Benevolent Asylum recent attempts have been made to introduce the battle of the sects; but, though some scandal has been caused thereby, the Government has not been forced to recede from its neutral position. With the two orphanages, however, it is different, for one is Protestant and the other Roman Catholic, and there appears to be some rivalry between them as to which can get the largest share of the State bounty. In the estimates of expenditure annually submitted to Parliament they are lovingly bracketted together under the head, "Maintenance of Orphan Schools, Parramatta, pending decision as to their future organization, £7500," but nothing is said as to how the vote is shared, and six Governments have left the decision as to their future organization still pending, while acknowledging in the terms of their estimate that the position of the rival institutions is anomalous. Encouraged by this complacency the promoters of Denominational training at the public expense are increasing their claims to assistance, and for the present year they have obtained votes amounting to £16,139, of which £8491 is for buildings and repairs, and £7648 for the maintenance of the children. Out of the votes for buildings and repairs the Protestan institution will get £2691, and the Roman Catholic £5800. Thus while "the decision is pending," the Denominational grant is increasing, and the lion's share goes to the smaller body. Upon what just ground can any Denomination claim to have its children fed, clothed, housed, and educated at the expense of the State? To the neglected and deserted children of the whole community, the State is in loco parentis, but as its taxation is not sectarian, neither should its expenditure be sectarian, and least of all its charities. Which decision will our politicians adopt, to banish the principle of sectarianism from our State institutions altogether, or to apply it uniformly and have a series of rival sectarian prisons, sectarian asylums, sectarian hospitals, and everything else sectarian, involving the expenditure of public money? They have hesitated so long that now they are attacked on their own ground, and it is the aggressiveness of sectarianism itself that will drive them to a decision. A high authority has told them that "half measures generally turn out miserable and cowardly failures," and they can now "point the moral" with the results of their own experience.

Among the errors of civilization to which Mr. FRANCIS NEWMAN gives the scarcely appropriate title of "barbarisms," he includes the water carriage of town sewage, and the consequent pollution of rivers and the concentration of sewer gases. It may be admitted that the system is rather a transfer of evils than a conquest of them. Yet Mr. NEWMAN gives no practical help towards remedying the difficulty. His proposal is simply impracticable. He says that no town should exceed the limit of twenty thousand inhabitants, and that by the side of every block of houses there should be a block of land on which the refuse from them should be placed as manure, so as to cultivate periodical and rapid crops. It is quite idle to ask whether, if cities could be chopped up into little towns, and little towns could have their sewage farms under their windows, sanitary matters would be better than they are now, and commercial matters would be no worse. It is sufficient to say that if we leave people free to act as they please, great cities will grow up, and that any attempt to limit this liberty would be resented as an intolerable tyranny. Our sanitary engineers have to manage, not for an ideal or possible world, but for the world as it is. Mr. F. N. NEWMAN has been a valuable contributor to the thought of his age and to its social morality, but he renders us no service at all when he tells us, in this age of great cities, that the true remedy for civic evils is not to have great cities at all. We cannot unbuild these cities or disperse the population, we cannot even restrict their growth. What we have to do is so to legislate as to place their inevitable expansion under some kind of control, to see that streets, lanes, buildings, spaces are all so arranged as to secure the maximum of health and convenience according to our lights, and to subject all private enterprise to such reasonable restrictions as shall make it work for and not against the public good. We cannot work against the social tendencies; we can only work with them and through them.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE Emperor of Russia and the Emperor of Germany are to meet at Konigsberg. So says our cable message of this morning. For what object this imperial interview is to take place is not very clear from present information. But whether importance is to be attached to the event or not, it is certain to be made the subject of very much gossip and surmise until it has actually taken place, and perhaps afterwards too. Another message informs us of the unfavourable harvest prospects in Italy. It is estimated that the yield of grain will show a deficiency of 50 per cent. as compared with last year's yield, and this cannot but seriously affect the Italian farmers.

WE understand that five tenders have been received at the Department of Public Works for the construction of the 62 miles of railway between Junee and Narrandera, and that the tender of Messrs. Fishburn and Moreton for £184,327 6s. 8d. is the lowest, and presumably, therefore, will be accepted. Fishburn and Moreton are, we believe, well known as railway contractors in Victoria, and it will be seen that their tender is something under £3000 per mile.

THE sociable friendly spirit of intercourse existing between the Foreign Commissioners assembled in Sydney becomes daily more apparent. On Tuesday evening Captain Mathieu, whose endeavours to foster such a spirit are most strenuous, entertained at dinner, on board Le Rhin, all his colleagues, or at least those with whom he has become acquainted since his arrival in port. Amongst his guests were Messrs. P. A. Jennings, C.M.G.; A. P. Loftus, A.D.C. to his Excellency the Governor; Professor Reuleaux (Germany), Herr V. Schonberger (Austria), Mr. Von Schelle (Belgium), Mr. Te Groot (Holland), Mr. Sakata (Japan), Mr. Gresley Lukin (Queensland), Mr. J. Joubert (New Caledonia), and some of Captain Mathieu's staff. After a most recherché dinner, Captain Mathieu proposed one toast, "Our respective Sovereigns," which, having been drunk, was responded to by Professor Reuleaux, who gave "The Republic of France and our 'Host.'"

ON Tuesday morning the captain and officers of the French man-of-war Rhin visited the Herald office, and inspected its different departments. They were keenly interested by the composing and the stereotyping, and were shown the process of printing from the endless web, a portion of the morning issue of the Herald having been specially delayed for the purpose.

THE usual monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of the Sydney Infirmary was held in the board-room on Tuesday. There were present:—Dr. Renwick (president, in the chair), the Very. Rev. Dean Sheridan, the Mayor (Mr. J. C. Roberts), and Messrs. J. R. Street, John Alger, H. E. A. Allen, Alfred Cane, F. H. Dangar, W. Chapman, William Clarke, John Pope, Benjamin Palmer, S. E. Lees, Richard M'Coy, Robert Gray, Joseph Graham, John Starkey, W. G. Foster, and Drs. Dinon and M'Kay. After the minutes had been read the chairman reported that his Excellency the Governor had consented to become patron to the institution. The report of the finance committee, recommending payment of sundry accounts, was received and adopted, and the report of the permanent structure committee was received. The president, in answer to questions, said that the three prize designs would be used by Mr. Rowe in preparing his plans, and that probably out of three imperfect ones one perfect plan would be drawn. The architect would not be paid a premium, but would receive a commission of 5 per cent., which would comprise everything. As soon as designs were completed they would be laid before the Board of Directors, and no steps would be taken in the matter without their consent and approval. The directors then took into consideration a letter from the Colonial Secretary, in reference to the non-acceptance of Mr. F. C. Turner as a medical student. A committee was appointed to frame a reply. Dr. Barnes tendered his resignation, which was accepted. The secretary was instructed to reply to a letter forwarded by Mr. Wilson, and informing him that, if £50 were collected for the Infirmary, the person in whose name the money was forwarded would be made a life governor of the institution.

THE Lending Branch of the Free Public Library continues to increase in public favour, and consequently in its usefulness. The following were the transactions between the 1st January and the 31st August:—Number of borrowers, 18,896; number of days open, 233. Class of books issued: Natural philosophy, science, and the arts, 2484 volumes; history, chronology, antiquities, and mythology, 2273; biography and correspondence, 2177; geography, topography, voyages and travels, 4448; jurisprudence, 266; mental and moral philosophy, &c., 856; poetry and drama, 659; miscellaneous, 6081; specifications of patents, 3—total, 19,447. The number of tickets issued since the 1st day of January, 1879, amount to 1854; new tickets issued, 1242; tickets renewed, 612; number of borrowers, 18,896; volumes issued, 19,447; volumes returned, 18,167; volumes out, 1280; volumes mutilated or destroyed, nil; volumes added to the Library since, 150; total number of volumes in the Library, including 3848 specimens of patents, 9653; number of days open for issue, 233; total transactions, 37,614. The number of books received during the past month scarcely keeps pace with the number of new borrowers; but we are informed that there are plenty more on the way, which will be added to the library during September. With nearly 1900 borrowers, and less than 6000 volumes, the librarian finds it difficult at times to supply readers with the class of literature they are in search of, and it therefore is most desirable that borrowers should return their books as soon as possible after reading them. The librarian informs us that during 1878 a few books were taken by borrowers, whose addresses cannot now be ascertained, and have not been returned. As it is highly probable that these books have fallen into the hands of persons who have a feeling of hesitancy about returning them, we would remind them that unauthorised holders of the property of the trustees are liable to prosecution.

THE Honorable W. C. Smith, Minister of Mines in Victoria, states in a memo. prefixed to the usual statistics published by the department, that—"A diminished yield of gold has again to be chronicled in comparison with the returns of former years. The gradual exhaustion of the alluvial deposits in the drifts of the first discovered gold-fields continues to be the main cause of the decrease in our annual product. The quantity of alluvial gold obtained in 1878 was less than one-fourth the quantity obtained in the year 1868. There are now encouraging prospects that the opening up of newly discovered auriferous lodes and of deep leads in the extensive areas of silurian country covered with volcanic rocks will cause a great improvement in our future gold returns."

WE have been requested to call attention to an advertisement in another column respecting the Official Catalogue, which is being prepared for issue by the International Exhibition Commission. The Commission, through its secretary, notifies that it has no interest in any publication but the Official Catalogue, for which Greville's Telegram Company are the advertising agents; and that no book, or pamphlet of any kind containing advertisements, will be permitted to be sold within the Exhibition-building or grounds except the Official Catalogue, and any sectional parts which may be issued by any particular Court.

THE correspondence respecting the Colonial Museum in London, which was laid before Parliament during the last session, has now been published by the Government Printer, together with plans showing the site, elevation, and structural details of the proposed museum. As our readers are probably aware, the project has been chiefly mooted by Dr. Forbes Watson, and the correspondence shows that the Agents-General for the Australian colonies and New Zealand in London applied to be informed of the cost at which the site and unfinished opera house erected thereon could be obtained, with a view to communicate the same for their respective Governments for consideration. Their inquiries elicited the fact that the site, which is on the Thames Embankment, and the buildings upon it could be obtained for £56,000; and Dr. Watson estimates that the total cost of the structure completed would be upwards of £200,000. It would provide 63,100 feet of floor space; and if New South Wales were to take the area assigned to her she would have 20,320 feet, which, at £3 3s. 6d. a foot, would cost her £6400. The cost of maintaining the Museum is put down at £12,000. The papers do not give any indication that the subject has been considered by our Government, and we have not heard of any enthusiasm about the project on the part of the other colonies.

THE Consul for the United States (Mr. J. H. Williams) notifies by advertisement that a register has been opened in his office, in which Americans can enter their names and addresses.

A PROCLAMATION in yesterday's Government Gazette revokes a part of the Billabong Gold-fields extension, to the extent of two acres.

THE third of the actions, Davenport and Fisher v. Hungerford, for damages for trespasses by Hungerford's cattle on Davenport's sheep station, Tatala, and which has occupied the attention of Mr. Justice Windeyer and a jury of four for the last three days, in the Jury Court, was concluded at 5.45 yesterday afternoon. The jury returned a verdict for Hungerford.

YESTERDAY evening the Rev. A. Burdett, chairman of the Baptist Union, read the annual address to a good congregation, in the Bathurst-street Church. Alluding to the education question, he expressed his opinion that the furious crusade against our Public schools was but a warfare against knowledge and Scripture truth, and affirmed that it would be to their lasting dishonour if they failed to defeat the purposes of the slanderous and Jesuitical Pastorals. The address will be found in another column.

WE have received from Mr. J. R. Clarke, fine art publisher, of Pitt-street, a photographic portrait of his Excellency Lord Augustus Loftus. It was taken by the well known firm of Bradley and Rulofson, San Francisco. It is a striking likeness, and is a beautiful specimen of the photographic art. It is cabinet size.

WE learn that the new School of Arts at Burwood, the foundation-stone of which was laid by the Hon. Lady Robinson in December last, is now completed, and is to be formally opened to-morrow, at 4 p.m., by Sir Alfred Stephen, K.C.M.G., who will deliver an address on the occasion.

A CORRESPONDENT writes, complaining of the practice at present indulged in to some extent, of persons engaged in athletic contests in places frequented by the public, wearing the least possible amount of clothing. He says that he was walking in the Domain on last Wednesday afternoon, in company with a lady, when a case in point came under his notice, and he was disgusted. On mentioning the matter to a friend, the latter said that he had witnessed an even worse exhibition of a similar kind in broad daylight, in Bourke-street, Surry Hills; and another friend told him that he had seen in the Domain on a Saturday afternoon not long since, a man racing in a state of absolute nudity. Judging from the fact that the only persons he had spoken to on the matter, had been witnesses of worse exhibitions than himself, it would appear that such conduct is not uncommon, and he thinks it is time steps were taken by the proper authorities to put a stop to it.

ST. SILAS' schoolroom was well filled on Monday evening on the occasion of a social gathering and reunion, held in the interest of the Church Enlargement Fund. The Rev. J. N. Manning occupied the chair. Letters were read from Mr. T. Buckland and the Hon. J. Campbell, M.L.C., apologising for their unavoidable absence. Appropriate addresses were delivered by the Revs. J. Barnier, W. Hough, G. M'Intosh, C. Garnsey, and T. Wilson, B.A. The successful issue of the tea meeting will materially assist the Churchwardens in meeting their engagements. The amount of the whole debt has been lent to the church by one gentleman, without interest, on the sole condition that it be paid off at the rate of £100 a year.

A VERY interesting service of song—subject, "The Seasons"—was given on Tuesday evening in the Presbyterian Church, Newtown, by the united choirs of Baptist and Presbyterian churches, under the leadership of Mr. J. Langley. The church was filled to overflowing, a number being obliged to stand. The Rev. R. Collie presided, and read the various selections of verse in the service. A good collection was taken up on behalf of the Sunday-school library. After votes of thanks were given to the choir and chairman, the meeting was brought to a close by the singing of the doxology.

THE first anniversary of the Flower of Ryde Lodge, No. 76, Independent Order of Good Templars, was celebrated by a tea meeting and concert, at the Municipal Council-chambers, Ryde, on Tuesday evening last. There were about three hundred present, including several visitors from the Sydney lodges, for whom a special steamer was engaged. Mr. E. A. Jones, G.W.C.T., presided. Addresses upon the present aspect of the temperance question were given by Messrs. Alderman Creer (of Newcastle), G.W.C.; W. B. James, G.W.S.; and Messrs. J. Hicks and E. Gordon, of Ryde. Some excellent music and singing was also rendered by the brethren present. The chairman announced that the order was rapidly increasing in membership, and that arrangements were pending to open several new lodges in various parts of the colony. He also expressed their thankful appreciation of the efforts of Mr. J. S. Farnell, M.L.A., the member for the district, who, when Premier of the colony, brought in an Amended Licensing Act, which, if carried into law, would have materially contributed to check the progress of intemperance.

A MOVEMENT with a view to the promotion of bicycling is now being made in Sydney. Within the past week the subject has been discussed among some of the active supporters of athletic exercises, and there has been a canvass of opinions as to the probability of any considerable number engaging in the sport. So far as the disposition of those consulted was concerned there was a prospect of some practical result being arrived at; and in order to bring bicycling more prominently into notice, and to afford the support which is to be obtained from a unity of purpose, it is now proposed to call a preliminary meeting of gentlemen interested in the formation of a bicycle club in Sydney.

ON Monday night, at Forest Lodge, a temperance meeting in connection with the Good Templars was held. Mr. Brown, from North Shore, and Pastor G. C. Nash addressed the meeting. Mr. Holdsworth, Grand Secretary to the Sons of Temperance, presided. Recitations and songs were also given.

A LECTURE on "The Lives and Deaths of Drunkards I have known," was delivered in the upper room of the Temperance Hall last night by Mr. A. M. Cameron. There was a very good attendance, and Mr. P. R. Holdsworth occupied the chair. The lecture was a vigorous denunciation of the drink traffic, and set forth in glowing terms the evils that must ensue to any person who gives way to the drinking customs of the present day. The examples dealt with were very striking, and evidently made a deep impression on the audience, who repeatedly applauded the remarks of the lecturer. On the motion of Mr. David M'Beath, J.P., a vote of thanks was carried by acclamation to Mr. Cameron, and also to the chairman. The meeting terminated by the singing of a temperance melody, after which several persons took the pledge.

ABOUT 450 persons assembled in the Temperance Hall last night, to hold a social gathering in connection with the Rev. J. A. Dowie's evangelistic mission. The proceedings commenced with a tea provided and presided over by ladies of the congregation to which Mr. Dowie preaches. Afterwards Mr. Dowie, in a speech of some length, detailed the objects of his mission, and said in conclusion that it was the intention of the committee as soon as possible to erect a temporary building capable of holding at least 2000 persons in which to continue his services. Meanwhile no effort would be relaxed to have the privilege of preaching in Hyde Park restored. Songs were sung and other addresses delivered, and a very successful meeting was brought to a close shortly after 10 o'clock.

A LARGELY attended public meeting of the inhabitants of Ashfield was held last night in the Wesleyan school-house, under the presidentship of the Mayor. The meeting affirmed that Parliament ought, during the next session, to introduce a bill to amend the Public Schools Act, by omitting those sections of it which provide aid for other than strictly Public schools, and that the system known as payment by results would be the most cumbersome, costly, and inefficient possible in a sparsely peopled country, and would above all other systems foment and spread disastrous dissensions in a mixed community like that of New South Wales.

THE general monthly meeting of the Royal Society was held yesterday at the Academy of Art, the Hon. Professor Smith presiding. Some routine business was first transacted, and then Dr. Hector, C.M.G., the New Zealand Commissioner to the International Exhibition, delivered an interesting address, illustrated by a map and diagram, on the geological formation of New Zealand. The lecture was listened to with great attention and pleasure, and at its conclusion a vote of thanks was awarded to Dr. Hector by acclamation.

A NEW fire brigade, named the "City Fire Brigade," held a meeting on Monday last, at their premises, 316, Castlereagh-street. About twenty members (the majority of whom have belonged to other brigades) enrolled, and the following officers were elected:—Mr. W. F. Hinchy, superintendent; Mr. L. M'Guinness, assistant superintendent; Mr. J. Shoote, foreman; Mr. S. Gunter, assistant foreman; Mr. H. Parr, treasurer; Mr. A. Olley, engine-keeper; Mr. T. Ruse, secretary. The directors of the A. S. N. Company have kindly placed their engine at the disposal of the brigade until such time as will enable them to procure a new engine, for which the members tender their sincere thanks. A band exists in connection with this brigade, under the able leadership of Mr. J. Devlin.

THE annual report of the University of Melbourne for the year 1878-9 shows that the full number of candidates for examination was 713, that the number who presented themselves for matriculation examination was 584, that the number who passed matriculation examination was 255, that the number who presented themselves for Civil Service examination was 645, and that the number who passed the Civil Service examination was 300.

THE usual weekly meeting of the St. Leonards Literary and Debating Society was held on Friday last, in the vestry adjoining the Wesleyan Church, the Rev. C. Stead, president, in the chair. After the preliminary business had been completed, a debate took place on the question, "Will the International Exhibition materially benefit New South Wales?" The debate was opened in the affirmative by the secretary, Mr. O. Pain, and after a long and interesting discussion, it was carried by a large majority that the Exhibition will not materially benefit the colony.

BETWEEN 8 and 9 a.m., yesterday, John Martin, second officer of the barque Wisteria, now lying at the Grafton Wharf in Darling Harbour, was engaged discharging cargo out of the vessel, and was standing on a plank which was lying across the vessel, guiding the bags of flour up out of the hold, when he suddenly fell down the hold, a distance of about 12 feet, and broke his neck. Death was, of course, instantaneous. The body, which was seen by Dr. Wright, was removed to the deadhouse at the Circular Quay; and an inquest will be held this morning upon it, at the Brecknock Arms.

AN inquest was held yesterday morning by the City Coroner, at Darlinghurst gaol, into the cause of the death of a woman named Louisa Kerrigan, a prisoner therein. The evidence adduced showed that deceased was about 30 years of age, a native of Sydney and a single woman; she was received into the gaol on the 14th June last, under a sentence of three months, with hard labour, for having no lawful visible means of support; she was taken into the hospital on the 28th July, and remained there until her death, which took place at 3 o'clock on Tuesday; there were about 50 convictions recorded against her between 1870 and the present date, principally for drunkenness and vagrancy. Deceased had received every attention that her case needed while in the gaol hospital, but without avail. Dr. O'Connor, visiting surgeon to the gaol, certified that death had resulted from pulmonary consumption, and the jury returned a verdict to that effect.

THE man James Spring, who fell down the lower hold of the steamship Cyphrenes on Monday afternoon, died yesterday at the Infirmary. He received concussion of the brain by the fall, and remained in an unconscious state till he died. An inquest will be held to-day

ABOUT half-past 4 yesterday afternoon, a man named Patrick Mullins, about 60 years of age, was found dead in a room at Greenhill's dining-rooms, 112, Liverpool-street. Mr. Greenhill states that deceased came to his house about 5 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon and ordered tea, of which he partook, and then went to bed. He got up at 10.30 a.m. yesterday and went out, returning again at 1.15 p.m., when he went up to his bed. Mr. Greenhill went to his room to call him about half-past 4, and found him dead as stated. Dr. Day was called in, but could not give any opinion as to the cause of death. Deceased had not been ill while at Greenhill's; but John Murray, landlord of the Duncote Inn, states that deceased, who is his father-in-law, was a tailor by trade, and had been drinking for the past two years; he had not been in settled lodgings for some time back.

YESTERDAY, about noon, a collision took place in King-street between a trolly belonging to Woods and Co. and a cart driven by a Chinaman. The latter's cart was slightly injured. Another collision occurred at the corner of King and George streets between a buggy driven by Mr. M'Innes, of Cook's River, and a six-horse team loaded with large cases, driven by a man named George Benson, in the employment of Messrs. Luscombe and Company. It is not exactly clear how the accident happened, but Mr. M'Innes says that he pulled up to enable Benson to pass, when the latter suddenly stopped his horses, and the consequence was that the hinder part of the team came into collision with the buggy, upsetting it and breaking one of the shafts.

THE following cases were treated at the Infirmary yesterday by Drs. Vause, Barnes, and Hastie:—Emily Roddy, incised wound under chin, caused by a fall; G. Harrison, fracture of bone of right arm, caused by a fall; J. M'Duff, scalp wound, caused by a fall; W. Ryan, fracture of both bones of left leg, caused by being crushed between two gas-pipes; Peter Brown, 12, lacerated wound of palm of right hand, caused by falling on a glass bottle; George Chambers, 60, severe scalp wound, caused by a fall; Charles Brown, 13, incised wound of right eye, caused by machinery; Sam Howard, scalp wound; W. Dawson, 16, needle in finger; Daniel M'Phee, crushed finger; Thomas Donnelly, ditto; Matthew Pierce, sprained left ankle; Matthew Hench, crushed finger; Lawrence Riley, scalped wound, through a blow from a billet of wood; Fanny M'Cue, cut lip, caused by a fall.

THE following is the report of the Benevolent Asylum for the week ending September 2, 1879:—Admitted: 3 women. Deaths: 3 infants. Discharged: 4 women, 3 children. Births: 3. Remaining in the house: 88 women, 136 children. Fresh applications for relief, 2. Provisions distributed: 872 loaves bread, 693 lbs. flour, 184 lbs. beef, and small quantities of oatmeal, sago, and sugar. Cases reported by the Inspector, 9; cases struck off, 2. Total number relieved, 214.

THE following is a return of copper ore and regulus received at Sydney station during the week ending 23rd August, 1879:—Bowning, 930 ingots copper, 6 tons 19 cwt.; Brown's Siding, 1300 ingots copper, 11 tons; Orange, 226 cakes copper, 10 tons 15 cwt. Total, 28 tons 14 cwt.

WRITING on Saturday evening, the correspondent of the Melbourne Daily Telegraph says:—"It seems a strange coincidence that suicides of a tragic nature never come singly. A second instance of suicide on a railway line occurred in this neighbourhood on Friday night. An old couple, named Conolan, residing about two miles from Marong, have for some years been living apart, but the husband has repeatedly maltreated his wife, and robbed her of the results of her industry. It appears that on Friday evening Conolan went to his wife's house, and beat her so severely that he left her for dead. Fearing the consequences of his murderous deed, Conolan rushed through the bush, and was seen by the engine-driver of the evening train from Sandhurst to Inglewood to throw himself in front of the locomotive. Before the train could be pulled up, the guard-iron of the engine cut off one of the wretched man's legs, and the body was carried some distance before the wheels of the carriages passed over it. The train was stopped as quickly as possible, and the body of deceased found literally cut in two, one leg missing, which was afterwards found some distance back; arm broken, and the carcase totally unrecognizable. There is no doubt that the man deliberately committed suicide from fear of the consequences of his brutality to his wife."

AT the Adelaide City Police Court, on Friday, August 29 (says the S. A. Register), Mr. Frank Skiffington Carroll, proprietor of the Lantern, comic paper, was tried on a criminal information charging him with maliciously publishing in his paper a defamatory libel on Mr. James Hurst, secretary of the Mutual Trade Protection Association, at Adelaide. Mr. Wigley conducted the prosecution, and Mr. W. V. Smith defended. At the close of the plaintiff's case, the Police Magistrate (Mr. Beddome) said he would send on the case to the Supreme Court, whether witnesses were called for the defence or not. The defendant was thereupon committed to take his trial at the next Criminal Sittings of the Supreme Court. Bail was allowed. Two sureties of £10 each, and defendant in £20.

ON Monday next a grand united Catholic excursion to Clontarf will take place, under the management of the central council of the Christian Doctrine Confraternities. All the city and suburban confraternities will take part, and the net receipts will be devoted to the Cathedral Building Fund. A large and varied programme of sports has been drawn up, two brass bands and a number of other musicians have been engaged, and no effort seems to have been spared by Messrs. Doyle and Williams, the honorary secretaries, to provide for the comfort and pleasure of the holiday-makers. A fleet of steamers will ply from the Circular Quay and Woolloomooloo Bay to the picnic ground during the day, from 9 a.m almost until the time for return.

IN Dr. Barry's letter yesterday, for "minister or priest" read "mistress or priest."

A PUBLIC meeting will be held this evening, in the Glebe Wesleyan Church, to protest against the Roman Catholic Pastorals.

GOULBURN, WEDNESDAY.

At the evening sitting of the Church of England Synod, on Tuesday, the Rev. J. M. Ware moved,—"That leave be given to bring in an amended sustentation ordinance, and that it be read this evening for the first time." Archdeacon Puddicombe seconded the motion, which was carried. The Rev. J. M. Ware then read the ordinance, which set forth, among other things, that no district be entitled to the appointment of a clergyman in full orders unless a minimum stipend of £300 per annum be provided, together with a house, subject to the approval of the Bishop; and at the first special meeting after the election of the Finance Committee in each year it shall be determined how the surplus income, if any, of the previous year shall be expended for the mutual benefit of the district, and of its present and future incumbents; and such determination shall be forwarded, under the hand of the chairman, to the secretary of the Church Society, who shall, with the written approval of the Bishop, cause the said surplus to be paid accordingly. The Rev. J. M. Ware moved,—"That a special committee be appointed to inquire into the circumstances of the non-payment to the late incumbent of Deniliquin of the stipend owing to him, and of moneys advanced by him for the building of the parsonage of that place, amounting in globo to more than £300; with power to take evidence, and to bring up a report at the next session of the Synod." Mr. W. Conolly seconded the motion, which was carried unanimously. Mr. A. M. Betts moved,—"That leave be given to introduce an ordinance to decide the mode by which determinations of the General Synod are to be accomplished by the Church in the diocese of Goulburn." The ordinance set forth that whenever any determination of the General Synod shall be submitted to the Synod of the diocese of Goulburn for acceptance, the question of its acceptance or rejection shall be decided by resolution of the Synod voting collectively; provided that if any five members shall so desire, the votes shall be taken by orders, and all determinations at the General Synod, accepted in the manner above mentioned, shall be binding upon the members of the Church in the diocese of Goulburn." The Rev. Canon Smith seconded the motion which was carried unanimously. The Synod again met this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Archdeacon Pownall moved,—"That inasmuch as one of the objects contemplated by the Church Society of the diocese is that of carrying on mission work amongst heathen races, and that there are residing in this diocese a large number of natives of China, it is desirable that a special mission should be undertaken by the society for the evangelisation of the Chinese." This was seconded and, after debate carried unanimously. Archdeacon Soares moved,—"That a society be formed for the purpose of carrying out the objects of the Church of England Temperance Society, established under the presidency of the Archbishop of Canterbury and York, to be called the Goulburn Diocesan Temperance Society, and that the Bishop of the Diocese be requested to act as president of the same." The motion was seconded by the Rev. A. D. Acocks, of Albury. Mr. O'Neill, of Queanbeyan, moved the previous question. This was seconded and, after debate, the amendment was carried by a large majority.

THE VICTORIAN TARIFF DEBATE.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

MELBOURNE, WEDNESDAY.

After dealing with the private business, the House went into Committee of Ways and Means. The Treasurer stated that several important concessions had been made by the Commissioner of Customs, and in boots and shoes particularly large reductions had been made. A number of members rejected the 25 per cent., and others thought after a Ministerial majority had decided in favour of a certain course that it would only be a waste of time to discuss it further, and of this view Mr. Casey was one of the principal exponents. Mr. Murray Smith, on the other hand, declared his intention to fight out every item, so that it might be seen who were the members who had secretly given in their adhesion to these duties, especially on farming implements. A motion to omit carts from the bill was negatived by a large majority. During the evening a scene occurred between Mr. Gaunson and Mr. Rees, which lasted for nearly two hours. Mr. Rees was the assailant, and Mr. Gaunson resented an allegation made against him in connection with the Lands Department. Mr. Rees was told that he had his price, and a request was made that the words be taken down, but the Chairman did not hear them, and the business before the House was again proceeded with.

THURSDAY, 1 A.M.

The House is still discussing the tariff.

SERIOUS COLLISION OFF NEWCASTLE.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

NEWCASTLE, WEDNESDAY.

A serious collision took place off Nobby's this morning between the steamers Saxonia, belonging to Mr. William Summerbell, of Sydney, and the Phœbe, owned by Messrs. J. and A. Brown, of Newcastle. About half-past 6 o'clock the Saxonia, with a small schooner in tow, was rounding the Bellbuoy, inward bound, as the Phœbe was outward bound, loaded with 1200 sheep for Sydney. When abreast of Nobby's the Phœbe attempted to pass to port of the Saxonia, when, owing to some mismanagement, the steamers came into collision, the Saxonia striking the Phœbe heavily on the starboard side, exactly abreast of the fore-hold; and, although the latter vessel was very high out of the water, owing to having only a light cargo, the Saxonia cut her down through the iron plates almost to the water's edge, and the Saxonia's overhanging bow at the same time ripped through the gangway, deck, and deckhouse, and smashed the wheel on the bridge to pieces. The Phœbe was at once brought back to port, and her cargo of sheep was landed. She will probably be removed to Hexham for repairs. The Saxonia had one of her starboard bow plates stove in, and a large hole was knocked in her port bow. No one was injured on either vessel.

RANDWICK RACES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Appended to the report of yesterday's races in your issue of to-day, I observe a notification that next Saturday's racing is to commence at 1 o'clock. May I ask your permission, in the interest of those employed in banks, merchants' offices, warehouses, &c., who do not get away until 1 o'clock, to suggest to the committee that they reconsider their determination and alter the time to half-past 1. Should they do so, I feel convinced the attendance will be largely increased, as hundreds of those to whom I have alluded, finding it possible to get out to the course in time for the first race, will go, instead of staying away as they otherwise would.

The half-hour lost might easily be more than made up by reducing the interval between the first and second races from three-quarters to half an hour, and that for luncheon from an hour and a half to an hour. I fancy there are few attendants of Randwick who do not feel the time between the races hang heavily on their hands, and who would not hail such a curtailment of the intervals as I have suggested as a vast improvement.

I am, Sir, yours, &c., QUILL DRIVER.

PARRAMATTA.

WEDNESDAY.

To-night a concert took place at the School of Arts and also a drawing for a pianoforte. The singers who took part in the concert were Mrs. Manton, the Misses St. Clair, and Messrs. Herman, Massey, Rainford, St. Clair, and Parkinson. The accompanist was Mr. Joseph Massey. There was a fair attendance.

To-day the Baulkam Hills Ploughing Matches and Athletic Sports took place. The weather was glorious, and there was a good attendance. The Ploughing match for all comers, prize £10 and a silver cup, was won by James Black. In the Swing Plough Match, the winner was W. Tuckwell. The Maiden Plate winner was A. Power; and the special prize for the maker of the plough doing the best work, was awarded to R. A. Ritchie.

In the Athletic sports, the Hurdle Race was won by John M'Cue; and the Baulkham Hills Handicap by Royal.

The monthly meeting of the Fire Brigade took place to-night. There was a good attendance. An arrangement is being made to celebrate the twentieth anniversary, and the townspeople are liberally supporting the movement.

Mounted troopers Rawlinson and Wright arrested John Nolan after a hot pursuit. The constables dismounted in the bush, and followed him on foot. Nolan is accused of horse-stealing.

NEWCASTLE.

WEDNESDAY.

The Church of England Synod, for the election of a bishop for the diocese of Newcastle, is now sitting at Christ Church. There is a large attendance of both clerical and lay members. The Synod was engaged all day and late to-night on the question, the sitting being conducted in private. It promises to be very lengthy, extending probably beyond to-morrow, and it is pretty generally believed that no decision will be arrived at here.

ARMIDALE.

WEDNESDAY.

Authentic information was received yesterday that the Ministry have decided to bring the railway into Armidale. Business men and property owners are consequently quite jubilant, and look as if a great load had been removed off their shoulders. The public are highly delighted at the decision.

The weather is showery and mild.

COPELAND.

WEDNESDAY.

The case of W. H. Cox, who jumped the land on which the premises occupied by the Commercial Bank are erected, was heard to-day by the Warden, who refused to grant Cox registration, on the ground that he was not in legal possession. Cox stated that he would appeal.

Stone from the Morning Star claim is being carted to the Rainbow machine. The prospects of the Mountaineer reef, Burneal Creek, Cobark, are excellent.

PARKES.

WEDNESDAY.

Great indignation is expressed at the remarks in reference to this town, made by some speakers at the railway agitation meeting, held in Forbes last week, as this district grows more wheat than the Forbes district, and would grow far more if railway communication to the market was available.

The calico ball last night, in aid of the Parkes hospital, was a great success.

The Molong mail arrived last night on horseback. The roads are still impassable for the coach. The weather is cloudy and warm, and like more rain.

FORBES.

WEDNESDAY.

One of the men connected with the recent forgeries has been arrested. He was brought up before the Bench to-day and remanded for a week. It is expected that the other man will quickly be captured.

The Orange and Sydney mails, which should have reached here last night had not arrived at 4 o'clock to-day, and great public inconvenience is felt at the delay. They are now twenty hours late. It is said the delay arises from the want of a bridge within a few miles of Orange, where the Heifer Station Creek is often impassable.

The Warden has not yet visited the new rush in consequence of his being detained at Grenfell. The miners are anxiously waiting his arrival, and hundreds of men are on the ground. The prospects are reported to be very favourable.

COONAMBLE.

WEDNESDAY.

The mail arrived yesterday afternoon, but there were neither Dubbo letters nor papers.

QUEENSLAND.

BRISBANE, WEDNESDAY.

The Assembly sat till 2 o'clock this morning, when twenty-four clauses of the Divisional Boards Bill having been passed, the Government considered that substantial progress had been made, and consented to an adjournment.

In the Assembly, this evening, the Divisional Boards Bill was again discussed in committee. Considerable progress was made, when the leader of the Opposition, at an advanced hour, declared that the valuation clauses were perfectly unworkable, and promised that if the Government would grant an adjournment he would give assistance to make them workable. The Government refused to adjourn, in spite of a protest on the part of the Opposition. Finally, on the Colonial Secretary's declaration that the whole bill should be forced through to-night, the Opposition, declining further responsibility, left en masse. The bill was finished by a House composed entirely of Government supporters. The House has just adjourned.

TOOWOOMBA, WEDNESDAY.

The Exhibition of the Royal Agricultural Society of Toowoomba was opened, at noon to-day, by his Excellency the Governor. The sheep classes are particularly well filled, surpassing any previous show, and heavy combing rams and hoggets are specially good. Cattle are well represented, but blood horses are not numerous. The draught horses are good. There is also a good collection of farm produce and machinery.

VICTORIA.

MELBOURNE, WEDNESDAY.

A reply has been sent to New South Wales, thanking the Government for their courtesy in the issue of free passes to the Sydney Exhibition to members of the Victorian Parliament on their arrival in Sydney, and expressing the hope that members will be able to take advantage of this kindness. Messrs. Casey and Bosisto, M.L.As., as Victorian Commissioners, will proceed on an early day to Sydney.

In the Assembly to-day the Government stated that the propriety of reducing the inland postage was under consideration. The Legal Professions Bill was read a second time, and the House went into committee on the measure, when strong opposition was shown and little progress was made.

Four larrikins perpetrated a disgraceful outrage at West Melbourne last night. They took possession of a hotel, consumed a large quantity of liquor, and assaulted the landlady, and also the constable who came to her assistance. All were arrested.

In the collision case between the Claud Hamilton (s.) and the Eden, Captain Irvine, of the former, upon being called upon to-day, said that when he left the bridge he left the ship in charge of the chief officer, who held a master's certificate from the Board of Trade. The Board suspended Captain Irvine's certificate for two months.

In the case of the woman De Lacy Evans, it appears that she had been working in the mines of the Bendigo district for ten years as a man, at one time as underground manager. She also had a wife who has been to see her since Evans has been in the Asylum.

A young woman named Emma M'Cann, residing at Carlton, who had taken poison, died to-day.

A large deputation from Mornington, to-day, urged upon the Minister for Railways the importance of constructing a line of railway from Frankston to Mornington, and it was pointed out that it would be useful for defence purposes. Mr. Woods said the projected line from Frankston was for military purposes and nothing more, as recommended by Sir William Jervois.

The Hon. J. J. Casey, Executive Commissioner, leaves for Sydney, on Saturday.

A telegram from London states that the steamship Northumberland left for Melbourne on the 1st instant.

It is expected that the sunken vessel Amyone will soon be afloat again.

SOUTH AUSTRALIA.

ADELAIDE, WEDNESDAY.

At the inquest on the bodies of the men Neville and Adamson, who committed suicide by hanging, at Gawler, the jury returned a verdict of felo de se. It is said that the deceased men, who had been in this colony for some years, originally came from Melbourne.

NEW ZEALAND.

[BY CABLE.]

WELLINGTON, WEDNESDAY.

Sir George Grey and Mr. Sheehan have been returned unopposed for the Thames and Dunedin City respectively. Three Opposition members have also been elected.

In reference to the recent native attack on surveyors near the Thames, Mr. Sheehan says he believes that a few days' delay may result in the surrender of the culprits, but that a precipitate movement would probably cause bloodshed.

AMUSEMENTS.

THE OPERA.

Last night Verdi's grand spectacular opera, "Aida," was given at the Victoria Theatre, on the occasion of the benefit of Miss Agnes Palma. Since the last performance of "Aida" we have had "Un Ballo"—considered by many as the composer's masterpiece—Auber's chef d'œuvre, Bizet's successful "Carmen," and Wagner's poetic "Lohengrin;" and whatever may be said as to the peculiarities of "Aida," it is but justice to record how well, in our opinion, the opera bears the test of comparison. The German has far more originality, and undoubtedly greater power of instrumentation. He appeals to the mysterious and poetically unearthly side of human nature. His music elevates, astonishes, yet awes the listener. While he charms he does not inflame the senses. The Italian uses the gorgeous massive pompous instrumentation of the Teuton, but uses it more on the veneering system: the real Verdi lacks the depth of the Northerner, but what he loses in science he makes up in fire. He has the passion which Wagner lacks. It is not for us to condemn or to exalt either by the comparison; the words which the Laureate puts into the mouth of Guinevere, who, speaking to Launcelot of that "passionless perfection," Arthur, goes on to say,

"Who loves me must have a touch of earth;
The low sun makes the colour."

It is this intensely vivid passion which is the powerful dramatic attraction of "Aida." There is not the elevated loftiness of the noble Elsa; there is not the supernatural goodness of Lohengrin, but there are speaking reproductions of agitated fervid affections, which, by their forcible reality, compel admiration.

Of Signora Link's grand interpretation of the regal slave, too much praise cannot be recorded. Her acting throughout was superb, and equally powerful in scenes with the exacting and jealous princess, her rival; with her father in the terrible conflict between filial affection and patriotic love on the one hand, and uncontrollable devotion to Radames on the other; and in the last effort, where the sacrifice of life attests the supremacy of love over all feelings, the vocal display was worthy of the dramatic, and Signora Link, by this performance alone, will leave a permanent fame in Sydney.

Signor Paladini was also at his best, his reading of the character of Radames might, we think, be improved by more vigorous acting; but if not demonstrative, he is conscientiously careful and attentive. At times he exhibits great earnestness, as at the moment of his discovery by Amneris and Ramases, while in his scorn of the princess's proffered love and interest on his behalf, he rises to special excellence. Signor Paladini sang the difficult music faultlessly.

Mr. Verdi, in our opinion, is more distinguished as the Ethiop king than in any other character he plays. It is the custom with many persons to place Escamillo first in the rôles of the baritone. We give the palm to Amonasro next to Telramund, and place Escamillo third. True, Escamillo's Toreador's song is always encored, in "Aida" and "Lohengrin" this rarely happens—popular feeling by no means involves right judgment. The third act of "Aida" brings the three artists above named into delightful and simultaneous prominence. Signora Link received a magnificent bouquet; the trio were recalled.

Mr. Templeton was in all the requirements a splendid high priest, singing splendidly and acting intelligently. Miss Royal must be commended for her invisible but very audible performance as the priestess. The grotesque and Moresque dance of the slave children is thoroughly in keeping with the music written for it; the solo dancer is a good model for the corps de ballet. During the second finale after the appearance of Amonasro, the four priestesses, or attendants at the temple who carry circular fans, stood chattering behind them, and nudging each other in a very rude way, if they do not sing at least they can be quiet; as individuals they are unimportant, but as they behaved last night, they form a most incongruous element in a highly creditable whole.

The King looked all that could be desired; if the voice were equal to the physical appearance, what a treat Mr. Angeiri's singing would be.

We have left the beneficiare until the last of the principal vocalists, following the rule of Royal processions, in which the sovereign comes last.

Miss Palma's magnificent voice has always been heard to great advantage in Amneris; the music is very difficult, little indeed to catch the ear at starting, or to guide the singer after the start, but the artist has learned it thoroughly and can carry her audience with her as she sings. Radames had enough to do to gather the floral trophies thrown to Amneris; the attendance, we regret to say, was below the average.

We have before spoken at length on the orchestral merits of "Aida," and now can very heartily endorse our previous notice. The trumpets on the stage are Wagnerian; the processional music for the second finale is Verdi, flavoured with Meyerbeer; the third act is the best, and contains the best tune; the fourth, musically, is Leonora in prison, with the last scene very much like Verdi of old.

The audience was appreciative, but not large; had the attendance been commensurate with the merits of the performance, apart from European standards, the house would have been crowded; indeed Signor Zelman and his troop rendered their work most artistically. The opera was deservedly applauded. The scenery was very good. To-night Balfe's "Bohemian Girl," with Madame Hersee as Arline.

There was no change at any place of amusement last night. At the Queen's Theatre, Mr. E. Trickett was presented, on behalf of the firm of Hiscocks and Hayman, with a handsome gold locket, suitably inscribed. Mr. T. Kennedy, in making the presentation, referred in happy terms to the recipient's past achievements, and to the forthcoming contest with Hanlan. The speech was so heartily applauded that Mr. Trickett's reply was lost to the audience. Captain Mathieu and his staff were present, and the minstrel performance went well.

At the Theatre Royal to-night, Sheridan Knowles' beautiful play "The Hunchback," will be produced, with Miss Dargon as Julia, a character in which she shines preeminently.

A Panorama of Fiji was last night displayed at the Protestant Hall for the first time, and the audience seemed to enjoy it very thoroughly. The scenes are enlarged photographs, and are therefore faithful representations of beautiful spots in this "isle of the sea," while the effects are well worked. During the evening a number of Fijians, among them a cannibal chief named Narcoe, appeared in native dress, or rather undress, and performed a number of Fijian dances, remarkable chiefly for curious pantomime and posturing. Mr. Besse delivered an interesting historical lecture.

The last mail steamer from San Francisco brought some artistes of note and performing animals, under engagement to Burton's Australian Circus, at the Haymarket.

SPORTING.

The A. J. C. Spring Meeting will be continued to-day, when as usual on the so-called off-day there is every probability of some first-class racing. At 1.15 p.m. the flag will fall for the President's Handicap, for which Secundus headed the list with 9 st. 7 lbs., but the pen was drawn through his name last night, and Trump Voss also resigned. Colima, Lord Burghley, and K. C. B. appear to be most in request by the public; while for the Sydney Handicap Strathearn, Black Swan, Hubert, and Drum Major are most inquired after. The Craven Plate promises to be a great race between Chester and Falmouth; and Nellie and His Grace are likely to be the first two for the Produce Stakes. If Moonbeam has recovered from the knock she received against the rails, when Jasper fell, on Tuesday, she should get home in front for the Three-year-old Plate, and her most dangerous opponent may be Belthazar. The sporting community will be glad to learn that, from inquiries made last evening, Mr. John Tait is progressing favourably. Jasper, which broke his stifle by coming into collision with the rail on the Metropolitan day, had to be shot yesterday evening. The following is the programme for to-day:—

LAYCOCK AND RUSH.

Since the making of the match between these two celebrated scullers on Saturday night both have been engaged in training, and it appears have turned their attention to the practice of the swivel rowlocks. Laycock, it may be remembered, tried them previous to his recent match, but the pair being rather heavy they were discarded. He now has a better finished pair in use, and in the presence of James Punch and others he yesterday afternoon did some good spins, and will probably use them in the race. Rush has also adopted them, but with what success is yet uncertain. Tommy Kelly who trained Trickett, has got Rush in hand; and there may reasonably be expected to be a close and exciting struggle to-morrow. The Commodore and Breadalbane will accompany the race in the interest of the competitors, and the Prince of Wales will take the members of the Press as before. The balance of the stakes, making in all £200, will be deposited to-night at James Punch's Hotel.

H.M.S. CORMORANT AT FIJI.

(FROM A CORRESPONDENT.)

H.M.S. CORMORANT, OFF SAMOA, AUG. 19.

After a successful run of fifteen days, the Cormorant arrived in Levuka harbour, where she stopped to take in coal for six days. On Saturday, August 9, her officers played a friendly game of cricket against the Europeans in Levuka, on a capital wicket, prepared with much care for the occasion. Much to everybody's surprise, and more especially their own, the visitors scored a decided victory. To have achieved this result, credit is chiefly due to the plucky way in which they all fielded together; Mr E. W. Wallington (making a trip in the Cormorant) and Benison, a marine, bowling successfully throughout the two innings. The steady batting of Messrs. Baxter and Bourchier helped Mr. Wallington to raise the total to 85, of which the latter claimed 54, not out. The bowling of Messrs. W. O. Groom and Pinkerton, on the part of Levuka, was especially good, and their fielding was very smart. Mr. J. Groom was in a very long time for his runs, but Messrs. Pinkerton and H. Hunter batted with great dash and vigour. Two excellent catches on the part of Messrs. Luckraft and Bourchier went far towards assisting the victory of the Cormorant. Natives as well as Europeans witnessed the match in large numbers, and a most pleasant day was thoroughly enjoyed by all. Subjoined is the score:—

PEDESTRIANISM.

At 9 o'clock precisely on Saturday last (says Bell's Life of July 12) Vaughan, McCarty, Pettitt, Wolfe, Robson, Clarkson, Smythe, Lewis, and Richardson were despatched on the last day's journey of this contest (the six days' working contest), the last-named and W. Lewis, of Islington, putting in an appearance in the hope of securing an extra prize, which the promoter (Mr. T. Alden) had generously offered for the competitor who should accomplish the longest distance in the last 14 hours, which was eventually won by Clarkson, who was credited with 55 miles at the conclusion of his day's work, Lewis having retired at 35 miles 5 laps, and Richardson at 45 miles. Vaughan, meanwhile, went in fine form, and at 12 o'clock had covered 350 miles 1 lap, McCarthy being second with 347 miles 2 laps, Pettitt 324 miles 4 laps, third, and Wolfe 307 miles 2 laps. The attendance was not so large as the genuine nature of the contest and the good performances demanded, still quite 2000 persons witnessed the finish of this really deserving affair. At 7 o'clock the scores of the first four men stood as follows:—Vaughan 377 miles 2½ laps, McCarty 364 miles 5½ laps, Pettitt 345 miles 3½ laps, Wolfe 326 miles 6 laps. Things went on now rather slowly, and finally, at 10.45 p.m., this, one of the most successful competitions of the kind in a sporting point of view, though, unfortunately, not so in a pecuniary sense, was brought to a conclusion with the following result:—Vaughan 390 miles, McCarty 377 miles, Pettitt 361 miles, Wolfe 328 miles 1 lap, Robson 317 miles 5 laps, Clarkson 298 miles 4 laps, Dickenson 222 miles, Freeman 201 miles, McIntosh 171 miles, Smythe 170 miles, King 160 miles.

BILLIARDS.

It may be remembered by our readers, says Bell's Life of July 12, that S. Baker and T. Cook gave an exhibition of 750 points up, even, at the Gray's Inn Tavern on Monday week, when, after a fairly-contested game, Baker proved successful by 90 points. This Cook evidently did not accept as a true criterion of their merits, and he promptly challenged the winner to play, on the same terms, for a "tenner," and posted his money. The game for the "needful" duly came off at the Freemasons' Tavern, Queen-street, Holborn, on Monday last, and, in spite of the closeness of the evening, attracted a large company, the spacious saloon, which, by the way, contains two of Burroughes and Watts's best tables in grand condition, having been only recently set up, being crowded to excess by enthusiastic on-lookers. Play began at a quarter to 8, and Cook, who appeared to be in good form at first, speedily took a strong lead, reaching 76 before Baker had scored 20. The latter, however, soon warmed to his work, and completed the initial 100 in advance, the marker presently calling Baker 105, Cook 96. At Cook 115, Baker 117, the former player put on a well-played 28, to which Baker responded with 18, breaking down at his second essay at the spot stroke. Cook only put on seven, when 13 from Baker brought the players pretty level; the score being Cook 152, Baker 154. Baker had now another shy at the spot, but again broke down at his second attempt; and a miss on either side, and a miscue of Baker's when he seemed to have a break on, caused the marker to have very little scoring to do until from 165 Cook ran to 188 in a well-played 23, winding up by leaving both his ball and the red in baulk. Baker failed to score, and Cook, making a dozen, completed his second century when Baker had only reached 176. The latter now picked up a little with runs of 11, 15, and 14, and reached 247 to Cook's 2[illegible]8. Here Cook in turn got on to the spot, and sent the red down three times with a total of 24, and aided by smaller contributions, passed into the fourth hundred a few points ahead, the game soon after standing at Cook, 302; Baker, 294. Baker was nevertheless playing well and with good judgment, runs of 21 and 29 once more landing him at the head of the poll, despite a 16 from Cook, the score at the end of the last named innings being Baker, 358; Cook, 333. Thirteen from Cook, and 12 and 17 from Baker, were the only breaks worth recording until the usual interval was called for at about 10 o'clock, when the figures were as follows:—Cook 3[illegible]1; Baker, 407. On resuming play Cook was again the first to break the ice, a nice useful 20 bringing him to 400, as against Baker's 427, after which safety-play was the order of the evening, until 12 and 26 (including 6 spots) raised the hopes of Cook's friends, and once more put the players on something like an equality, the game being called 452 all, 455 all, 476 all, and 485 all; and following this up with a magnificent break of 54 all round, Cook looked all over a winner. Still Baker was by no means discouraged, and playing very steadily, gradually overhauled his man, and at Cook 542, Baker 547, again assumed the lead. Of this he was never dispossessed, and with runs of 25, 28, 18, 24, 21, and 13 in rapid succession, went right away, and Cook, having very bad luck towards the finish, Baker ultimately won by 128 points, amidst loud applause. The game was carefully marked by E. Boult, who also officiated as referee.

ELIZABETH-STREET, REDFERN.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In your issue of the 16th ultimo, a letter appears with the above heading and signed Thomas Buckland, quoting verbatim a resolution moved by me, and carried by the Council of the abovenamed municipality; the writer then makes this statement:—"For some unexplained reason Mr. Patrick Stanley appears to omit no opportunity of adopting measures adverse to the interests of Sir Daniel Cooper." Now, Mr. Editor, I am not conscious of ever having adopted any measures calculated to have such effect, and I do not believe the ratepayers will credit this statement of Mr. Buckland's; the public well know, and so does Mr. B., that when the Council pass a resolution it is my duty, as Mayor, to see that such resolution is carried into effect, and certainly I would not be deterred from doing my duty through fear of displeasing Mr. Thomas Buckland. Over three years ago the Council adopted a resolution appointing a deputation to wait upon Sir Daniel Cooper, to ask that gentleman for the use of a piece of land for a depot for municipal purposes, and Sir Daniel Cooper very courteously promised, in the presence of Mr. Buckland, to give an acre of land for such purpose, but the promise has not yet been fulfilled. Twice it has been my duty, in terms of resolutions of the Council, to employ legal assistance to recover arrears of rates assessed on Sir D. Cooper's estate. These circumstances, and the resolution quoted by Mr. B., are the only measures adopted by me in any way affecting the interests referred to, and I think thus far the ratepayers and the public will admit that I have not exceeded my duty, and that Mr. Buckland is not justified in making the assertion that I have adopted measures adverse to the interests of Sir D. Cooper. With regard to planting a row of trees, I think if the trustees of the Redfern Estate carry out the proposed plan to make a lane on the west side of Sir D. Cooper's one-foot reserve, Elizabeth-street, over two thousand feet in length, it would be the cheapest and best means the Council could adopt for obscuring the unsightliness of a range of water-closets and sheds along one of our finest streets. Mr. Buckland seems very desirous to attract public attention to the twelve inches by having it printed in capitals. I suppose he would not be prepared to give the Council credit if they proposed to plant in the middle of the footway, and as he attaches so much importance to the reserve itself, it would hardly be safe to plant trees therein. Mr. Buckland insinuates that the resolution referred to was passed to defeat the object for which the foot of land in question was reserved. This I most emphatically deny. I would remind Mr. Buckland that I am a much larger ratepayer than Sir Daniel Cooper within this borough; therefore, the cost of planting a row of trees would affect me more than he in a pecuniary point of view. Mr. Buckland gives a long explanation of the reasons that led to the making this one foot reserve, and goes on to state that Sir Daniel Cooper dedicated, out of his own land, that portion of Cleveland-street extending eastward from where the boundary-stone stands to the Wesleyan Chapel, but does not inform the public at whose expense the street was formed, and that it gave two very valuable frontages to one of the best streets about Sydney.

Mr. Buckland then goes on to say that in the year 1855, being desirous to extend Elizabeth-street southwards to the Botany Road (all along and through Sir Daniel Cooper's land) he does not inform the ratepayers that it was in their interest he was desirous of making this extension. At this time the owner or owners of that land were the only ratepayers thereof. With regard to the correspondence between the proprietors of the land, I have nothing to do with. However, in the year 1866-67, when the so-called Elizabeth Association was formed for the purpose of making Elizabeth-street, Mr. Buckland says every proprietor contributed towards this object, with the exception of the owners of the Redfern Grant. Well, it does not appear that Mr. Buckland's liberality was very conspicuous, he says every proprietor (with the exception named) contributed. The amount appears to have been £400; of this amount, I am informed on good authority, £100 was contributed by the trustees of the Albert Cricket Ground, and I believe a sum of £150 by others, leaving a like amount as the contribution of Mr. Buckland or Sir Daniel. The Municipal Council of Redfern was induced to undertake the formation and making Elizabeth-street by the offer of this contribution of £400, and they faithfully carried out the work at a cost of upwards of £1000; thus over £6000 was expended out of Municipal funds; and I may further state that since that time the Council have expended £3000 additional on this street. Will Mr. Buckland make another appeal to the ratepayers, and ask why did they allow this. The estate he (Mr. Buckland) then represented ought, according to the 117th section of the Municipalities Act of 1867, to have made and formed this street, and not have left it a burden upon the many hardworking men who have invested their all in buildings and improvements, which, according to the tenor of their agreements, they are bound to keep in good repair to the end of their lease, when the heirs of Sir Daniel Cooper can claim the whole of the properties. I may state that the assessed annual value on the portion of the Estate opened up by the formation of Elizabeth-street, within this Borough in 1867-68, was £230, and the assessed annual value of property on the same land, this year, 1879, is £13,348. Will Mr. Buckland affirm that this is owing to his or Sir Daniel Cooper's liberality? Is it not rather owing to the industry of the ratepayers who have been appealed to. Will not the sum of nearly £400 spent on the maintenance of Elizabeth-street compare favourably with the £75 to be expended in planting trees to modify a prospective nuisance. I do not think that Mr. Buckland's appeal to the ratepayers asking whether they will permit municipal funds to be wasted for the purpose of injuring Sir Daniel Cooper, will meet with a favourable response. There are very few of the ratepayers who are not aware that nearly one-third of the yearly revenue of the Borough is expended in making improvements on Sir Daniel Cooper's Estate. And in conclusion, I beg to submit that the increased value of the estate through public improvements therein since 1867, and its prospective increase through the same means, far more than compensates Sir Daniel Cooper for the surrender made as indicated by the ingenious summary appended to Mr. Buckland's letter.

I am, &c.,
PATRICK STANLEY.

THE ROYAL "WE."—King John was the first monarch who assumed the royal "we," and he has also the credit of having been the first English King who claimed for England the sovereignty of the seas. "Grace" and "My Liege" were the ordinary titles by which our Henry IV. was addressed. "Excellent Grace" was given to Henry VII., who was not the one nor yet had the other. Edward IV. was "Most High and Mighty Prince." Henry VIII. was the first complimented by the title of Majesty, and James I. prefixed to the last title "Sacred and Most Excellent."

THE BAPTIST UNION.

Yesterday evening the annual meeting, in connection with the Baptist Union, was held in the Bathurst-street Baptist Church. There was a good attendance. The Rev. A. Burdett presided.

After devotional exercises, the Rev. F. HIBBERD read the annual report, and financial reports of various organisations in connection with the denomination.

The Rev. A. BURDETT, read the annual address as follows:—"Dear Brethren,—We come together as a Christian Union, and a Baptist Union, for counsel and harmonious effort in the Great Master's service. Since our last anniversary, some of our esteemed brethren have passed away to the realm of life eternal; their familiar faces we shall see no more. But instead of the fathers are the children; many of our young people having found the Christ of God, have acknowledged Him before the world, and our numerical increase testifies of the soul-quickening power of the Gospel; yet is our joy not unmixed with sorrow, for here and there one, like Orpah and Demas have gone back to their people and their gods. Let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall. 'Student of wisdom, if thou wilt suspect, let it be thyself.' With special reference to our young people we propose to make some observations concerning the Church of Christ. Although a familiar subject it demands our thoughtful attention. Note first the spirituality of its nature. When Jesus would describe the subjects of his kingdom He chose an old Greek word, and clothed it with a loftier and spiritual meaning. In the lips of the learned heathen it expressed the calling out of all the free citizens from among the general population of the city; it therefore denoted a select portion of the inhabitants. As employed by the Saviour and His apostles this word 'ecclesia' signified the calling out of men from the mass of idolators to the service of the living God, to holiness of life and fellowship with each other in Christian worship. Sometimes it embraces the whole multitude of believers, whether on earth or in heaven. Thus He gave Him to be head over all things to the Church which is His body, the fulness of Him that filleth all in all. There we have the saints on earth and all the dead in Christ, the Church universal, the mystical body deriving its life from Christ its living head, and without which He himself would be incomplete. Does this community of kindred souls lie open to general inspection? Can Pope or prelate tell us whose names are, or whose are not in the Book of Life; have not thousands of saints passed away from scenes of obscurity to join their brethren, the 144,000 who stand on Mount Zion, having the seal of the living God? In the New Testament the character of the persons who composed the Primitive Church is clearly defined. They are described as a chosen generation, as having been turned from darkness to light. Paul speaks of the Church of the Thessalonians as in God the Father and in His Son Jesus Christ; of the Ephesians as brought nigh unto God, as built upon the foundation of the Apostles and prophets; of the Philippians as saints in Christ, and as citizens of Heaven. Whatever difference in social position might exist among the members of the first churches, they possessed a common character—a spiritual identity secured by the grace of the same Divine spirit which worketh all in all. The sun in the firmament calls forth vegetation appropriate to every land upon which he shines; and although in different climates the trees differ in size and the flowers in perfume, yet the effects of his genial power are the same. In like manner the sun of righteousness shines in common over all believing souls, and if they differ in some matters of minor importance, yet there is a sweet oneness in experience and heart; the renewed soul in which Jesus dwells is a garden of God 'decked with flowers,' adorned with humility, long suffering, patience, brotherly kindness, charity, and as the root of all divine virtues, with faith in the incarnate Saviour. Being one in character we are one in privilege, forgiveness of all sin, heirship with Christ the first born among many brethren, victory in death, and a right to the tree of life in the Paradise of God. These are privileges within reach of the trembling believing gaoler at Philippi, not less than of the Apostles committed to his charge. In the Roman world this spiritual identity of character must have appeared a new and strange phenomenon; it was not a new thing in the Hebrew world; from the time of Abraham to the advent of Christ, there had always been a remnant of like-minded men, of whose pious fellowship on earth a record was kept in Heaven. From the beginning we find a peculiar people among the peculiar people, children after the spirit and children after the flesh. When Jehovah set apart Israel from all other nations, He set apart the godly for Himself—the sheep of His pasture, types of the New Testament Church. 'My sheep,' says the Good Shepherd, using Old Testament metaphors, 'hear My voice, and follow Me, and I give unto them eternal life.' The rapid growth of the early Church: The triumphant success of the Gospel at and after the day of Pentecost is the grandest event in history. For thousands of years the dismal shades of heathenism had been thickening until darkness impenetrable covered the earth, and thick darkness the people. Was it probable that a few despised and obscure Jews would be able to dispel the awful gloom? Was it likely that a crusade against the selfishness, the pride, the licentiousness of the world would ever succeed? Was it likely the worship of gods and goddesses by bacchanalian rites would be abandoned for the pure and spiritual worship of one God, whose representative had been crucified at Jerusalem? The idea of only one object of faith and worship for the whole world must have appeared in the last degree absurd. And a religion which placed bond and free Greek and Jew on the same level before God, which demanded repentance in the Monarch who claimed divine honours as much as in the slave at his palace gate, must have been infinitely offensive to human pride. Nevertheless this new kingdom of truth and grace made its way in the earth. The proudest Emperor was obliged to acknowledge a power mightier than his own. Did the Heralds of the Gospel adopt any of the arts of human policy; did they attempt to gain the wise men of the world by accepting their doctrines? Just the reverse, and hence the learned assailed Christianity with intellectual weapons, and the Civil power assailed it with brute force yet the word of the Lord grew and multiplied, and within a brief period the good seed of the kingdom had taken root in every country from the Euphrates to the Atlantic ocean. About seventy years after the ascension of Christ, the Governor Pliny, in a letter to the Emperor Trajan, writes:—'This superstition has spread on all sides; in towns, in villages, and in the country; the temples of our gods stand deserted, and sacrifices have now for a long time ceased to be offered.' A century later Tertullian could say to the heathen, we are but of yesterday, and yet we have possession of your whole country—towns, islands, the camp, the palace, the senate, the forum; we have left you only the temples. Nor could the great persecutions arrest the progress of this spiritual kingdom; certain of the Roman Emperors considered it their special task to root out the very name of Christianity from the world; but the arm of the executioner utterly failed, the prophetic stone rolled on, smote the imperial image, became a great mountain, and filled the whole earth. Whence this most marvellous power and progress of the Christian faith? Church of the early days and Church of the Catacombs, tell us wherein thy great strength lay? Thanks be to God is their modest and unanimous reply; thanks be to God, who always causeth us to triumph in Christ. Nor must we forget that, while our Father God was the supreme worker, they were eminently qualified for their great mission. Having themselves eaten of the bread of life, they were eager to carry it to the world perishing with hunger; themselves delivered from the power of the old serpent, they sought to snatch others from his venomous embrace; constrained by the love of Christ, and anointed with the Holy Spirit, their work was their glory and delight. In proportion as the modern Church emulates the missionary zeal of primitive believers will she be crowned with the honour of conquering the world for Christ. Preservation of the Church: Her blooming spring and golden summer were succeeded by a long and stormy winter of bitter controversy, false doctrine, and internal strife. No sooner had Christianity vanquished the forces of the Roman Empire than her own ministers betrayed her by becoming servants to the power they had subdued. Their strength was now sought in a confederacy between the magistrate and the priest; a confederacy which surrendered the exclusive authority of Christ in His own Church. 'Ah, Constantine, to how much ill gave birth that plenteous dower which the first wealthy Father gained from thee!' Yes, and the effect of that unblest confederacy has been to stereotype injustice and persecution for fifteen centuries. It was divinely promised that the true Church should never be destroyed; but there is no promise it should be kept free from corruption; on the contrary, even under the care of the Apostles, false teachers crept in unawares and overthrew the faith of some. In his farewell address to the elders at Miletus, the Apostle Paul speaks of grievous wolves that would enter the Church after his departure; and the inspired epistles speak of damnable heresies, of giving heed to seducing spirits and doctrines of demons, of falling away, of the man of sin, of the working of the mystery of iniquity. All this was in accord with the parables of the Lord—noxious tares amongst the wheat, foolish virgins amongst the wise, and wolves in sheep's clothing. The worst enemies of the Church would be found within her own pale; renowned fathers of the third century would teach that sin could be expiated by celibacy and fasting, that the Lord's supper was the consummation of the sacrifice on Calvary, that the authority of tradition was equal to the authority of Scripture; thus it was that men of learning and piety unconsciously sowed the seeds of the Papal system, whose cruel bigotry and carnal ambition, through all the centuries, have been calling for fire, professedly from heaven but in reality from hell, to consume its opponents. Yet with His distinct preknowledge of all that priestly artifice, and 'pride ecclesiastic' and political power could do to injure His kingdom, the Christ of God declared, 'On this rock will I build my Church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it.' Have they prevailed? As in the idolatrous times of Jewish history, there were seven thousand who had not bowed the knee to Baal; so, in the darkest night of the Papacy, there were thousands who would not worship the Apocalyptic beast. Centuries before Luther, Wycliffe had exposed the superstitions of Rome, and a numerous band of his followers nobly avowed the faith once delivered to the saints. At the instigation of the clergy a law was passed in England requiring the strictest search should be made for persons suspected of heresy, whom it was decreed to prosecute with the utmost rigour. Who would have thought, says Fox the martyrologist, but that the name and memory of this persecuted sect should have been utterly rooted up? yet, so far from this, they rather multiplied daily, and were dispersed in nearly every county in the kingdom. Another law was passed by which all who read the Scriptures in English, then called Wycliffe's learning, should forfeit land, cattle, goods, and life, be condemned as heretics to God and enemies to the Crown, and if they continued obstinate and relapsed after pardon, they should first be hanged for treason against the king, and then burnt for heresy against God. Did those atrocious efforts to extinguish the light of Christianity succeed? Did they not rather evoke such an intense sympathy with the innocent victims of persecution as proved stronger than the bigotry of the priesthood or the despotism of the State; the dying martyr was more potent than his living persecutor. 'Penal statutes to suppress eternal truth,' as was finely said, 'resemble penal statutes to cleanse the world of violets; fashion may banish them from the burgomaster's garden, but the heavens will unite to nourish them under the shade of a nettle, or at the foot of an oak.' In the Reformation of the 16th century we recognise the interposition of Christ as head over all things to His Church. When the iniquity of the Amorites was full, retribution came; and when in the Papal Church superstition and falsehood, and licentiousness and avarice, the common parent of all, had reached their climax, then, in accordance with the Divine method of choosing the weak things of the world to confound the things that are mighty, an obscure monk is employed to shake the hateful anti-Christian system to its very foundations. Even the outward effects of that moral earthquake were by no means small. It was something done when monks and nuns exchanged the monastic for the marriage life; it was something to erect schools with the appropriation of funds which for centuries had sustained an army of ecclesiastics who devoured the flock; to silence invocation to saints and to the Virgin Mary, was something more. Better than all was the Bible in the vernacular of the peoples, and the promulgation of the Apostolic doctrine of salvation by faith without works. In Great Britain, that soul-quickening truth took deeper root than it did on the Continent, hence in the former it became a fruitful vine, while in the latter it withered and perished. Men are not wanting who despise the old English Puritans. We regard them as constituting the true Church of the living God, the stay and pillar of the truth in that honoured land. If their manners were uncourtly, or their views of religious liberty defective, or their theology stern, yet their sanctified intellect, as it shines and burns in the Puritan works of Baxter and Howe, in the Puritan epic of Milton, and the Puritan allegory of Bunyan, has bequeathed to the universal Church a rich legacy of evangelical and imperishable truth. We do not forget that the Reformation was a great instrument in undermining the old system of mental despotisms. It awoke the nations from the ignorance in which they had slept for ages; hence even infidels have commended Luther and his noble associates. But not until recently has the Church of Christ assumed her appropriate position as a missionary society. Her aggressive character dates from the end of the last century. The year in which the horrors of the first French Revolution convulsed Europe, witnessed the formation of the Baptist mission to India. To our own denomination was the honour given of sending forth the first pioneers into the moral wilderness of heathendom, where they and their successors have been famous in lifting up the Gospel axe against the huge tree of pagan idolatry. The missionary era is now set in that brave messengers are encouraged in their enterprise by a readiness amongst the heathen themselves to receive the Gospel, yea proofs are given that a nation may be born in a day. Hindrances to the diffusion of spiritual truth may be expected from carnal men; that they should proceed from an organization which claims to be the only Christian church on earth, is a strange anomaly. Yet true to her antecedents, the Roman Catholic Church is the patron of ignorance and superstition; mental and spiritual darkness is her native element and her strength. How can an infallible shepherd who has always withheld the truth from his docile sheep, permit them to be taught it now? The chief reason as you all know for sending forth the army of the Jesuits was to counteract the circulation of the Bible by the reformers; and what is this furious crusade against our Public schools but a warfare against knowledge and Scripture truth. The author of these precious Pastorals may well anathematise the Scripture lessons which put into the hands of the young an instrument that will break the yoke of their bondage. No marvel that the thirteenth Lion of the Vatican and all his younger lions should gnash their broken teeth at heretics. Compromise with Rome is now impossible, her own insufferable arrogance has made it impossible. As the friends of civil and religious liberty and as Protestants against the Papal system, it will be to our lasting dishonour if we fail to defeat the purpose of these slanderous and Jesuitical Pastorals. Consider now the subject of our own usefulness as members of the associate churches. The character and influence of His true disciples are described in the strong words of the Master—Ye are the salt of the earth, the conservative power which saves the world from moral ruin. What human nature was before the flood, or in the reign of Nero, it is now—diseased at the core. The course of the human race, said Neander, apart from Christianity, is downward; all its civilization ends in barbarism. You may paint and ornament a decayed mansion, but if the inside timbers are rotten, of what avail is all your external decoration. We, dear brethren, are part of the agency by which the gracious Renovator is implanting new life in corrupt humanity; and anything short of a new supernatural life will resemble the momentary effect of galvanism on a dead body. If awake to our solemn responsibility as the servants of Christ we shall strive to acquire greater meetness for the Master's use. Earnestly therefore do we invite to a more thoughtful study of the Divine Word as an important qualification for Christian work. The disciples at Berea were commended by St. Paul because they searched the Jewish Scriptures to satisfy themselves that what the Apostles affirmed was in full accord with ancient prophecy. One of the most serious defects of the Church in our day is her imperfect and superficial knowledge of the Bible. Formerly to the Jewish, now to the Christian Church are committed the Oracles of God—a sacred treasury of Divine speeches delivered at sundry times by holy men of God, who spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost; and the fact of their Divine origin is conclusive evidence of their absolute truth and wisdom. As to the mode of inspiration we are not ashamed to confess our ignorance; the fact itself is the granite rock on which our faith rests. Knowing that we possess an authentic revelation of the love and righteousness of God, a perfect expiation for human guilt, a book adapted to every nation, every age, a book in which we behold the Saviour's face almost in every page; does our diligent study of this wondrous volume bear any proportion to its priceless worth? Is it not true that in some professedly Christian households lean and shallow fictions are allowed to absorb so much time, that mere fragments are left for the volume of eternal truth; not only so, but in proportion as the mind feeds on fancies does it lose its appetite for spiritual realities. Earnestly therefore and affectionately, we counsel the young members of our churches to beware of that insidious foe. An evening spent over a book whose pages are stained with 'putrid thought or miserable incident,' may render your devotional exercise a mere dead formality, instead of a living sacrifice. In these days of unsettlement and religious doubt, we cannot afford, in our navigation to eternity, to throw away the old anchor, chart, and compass of revelation; and if the Divine Word dwelt in us richly in all wisdom, it would prove a right trusty sword against an army of doubts. The experience of the Divine Master will supply an illustration. You know how the prince of darkness afflicted Him with sore temptations from within and from without, but every thrust of Satan was repelled, not by argument, but by ancient Scripture. The threefold temptation was overcome by a threefold quotation, 'it is written.' Whether tempted to distrust, or to presumption, or to ambition, an effective weapon was instantly at hand, proving the Saviour's intimate knowledge of the Pentateuch and the Psalms, and by thus using them he set His own seal to their enduring authority. Through all the centuries since that terrible conflict, the adversary has been sowing seeds of disbelief and doubt, and our victory must be sought in the skilful use of the living oracles. If our practical love of the grand old book, expose us to the discredit of being ignorant of some of the questionable literature of the day, we may console ourselves by this fact, that in consenting to lose wood, hay, and stubble we gain the silver and precious stones. And when intellect and heart are enlightened by the word, religious theories whether old or new will be easily tested by this infallible standard; many an ingenious speculation will thus be rejected as anti-scriptural, and therefore worthless. Believe not every spirit or every doctrine, but try the spirits whether they are of God; they may come as Andrew Fuller says, 'In a rational garb, or a holy garb, or an evangelical garb'; but if they fail to do homage to the Redeemer; fail to confess His divine existence before He took our nature; fail to teach that He gave Himself a ransom for us, they are not of God. In thus speaking, we do not express our own dictum, but simply repeat an apostolic verdict. Truth in wise proportion: We advise our young people to grasp the whole of Christianity and not be satisfied with a part only. One of the unhealthy signs of the present day, is a growing tendency to exalt Christian life at the expense of Christian doctrine. We are told that righteousness and charity may exist independently of religious ideas, and that the gentle virtues may blossom in heathen lands; hence these men would surrender large portions to the sacred canon, and then affirm that all which is vital in Christianity remains. Not merely have we no authority in Scripture for separating practical holiness from divine doctrine, but they are always found there in inseparable connection and harmony. Bible readers must have observed that the apostolic letters begin by teaching great principles from which they derive motives to Christian purity, connecting the truth and life by the expressive adverb therefore—Ye are bought with a price, therefore glorify God. Resurrection to a blissful immortality is promised; be ye, therefore, steadfast and unmovable. It has been well said, religion is neither a set of intellectual convictions nor a bundle of emotional feelings, but a compound of both—the former giving birth to the latter. To overlook the distinguishing doctrines of the Gospel, says Robert Hall, under the pretence of advancing the interests of morality is one extreme; to inculcate those doctrines without habitually adverting to their purifying influence is another, not less dangerous; if the former involves the folly of attempting to rear a structure without a foundation, the latter leaves it naked and useless. It is gratifying to know that the ministry of the Baptist denomination, avoiding both extremes, proclaims the whole Gospel, which was, and is, and is to come, the power of God to salvation. Glorious Gospel, which appeals to and develops and sanctifies the entire nature of man! The wise counsel of one of the Hebrew prophets, given to an assembly of young men, we commend to all the young people amongst us. Stand ye in the way, and see and ask for the old paths, where is the good way, and walk therein, and ye shall find rest for your souls. Having now briefly touched upon the spiritual nature of the Christian Church, its early triumphs, its marvellous preservation, its modern revival, and its unchanging mission to be the light and salt of the world, it behoves us to ponder our own responsibility, to scrutinize our individual influence in the Churches to which we belong. High privileges involve corresponding obligations. To be able to trace our distinctive practice to the Apostles, to know that every Greek lexicon in the world is on our side, to know that our section of the one Church is gaining strength in every land, and not least in Rome itself, all this will avail us nothing unless it provoke to emulation, prayer, and effort. True, the Lord hath done great things for us, but not greater than for the other tribes of the spiritual Israel. What are we doing to fulfil our evangelistic mission? To what extent are the associate Churches the spiritual birth places of the world, the lion of which it may be said this and that man was born there; do we engage in the service of Christ with a firm belief in its endless results. 'I paint,' says a great artist, 'for immortality;' and you remember how the Son of God drew his strongest arguments from eternity. Are not the parables matchless pictures of an endless life—'futurity for ever future, life beginning still where computation ends.' If, as Thomas Carlyle says, you cannot see eternity from Paris, and if you cannot always see it from a professedly Christian Church, faith may always find it in the New Testament, especially in the words of the Lord Jesus; and when He spoke of two regions in the invisible world, with an impassable gulph betwixt them, the solemn truth was uttered without the shadow of hesitation, misgiving, or doubt. Loyalty to Christ as our infallible teacher, and fellowship with Him as the source of our spiritual life, will make us fruitful branches whose fruit will remain to eternity. In every department of Christian service, whether in the pulpit, or the Sabbath school, or the Bible class, we are working for eternal results both in ourselves and others. John Bunyan wrote a book for immortality; the Saviour will reward, and millions will thank him for ever. Although none of us may write a book whose influence for good will outlive the sun, yet we may all so live for Christ, and in Christ, that our example and our words may prove an eternal blessing to others; even a tract given to a wayfaring man may be the means of his conversion, and thus an insignificant act will secure never-ending results, both to the donor and the receiver. Whoso turneth a sinner from the error of his way, shall save a soul from death; and they that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament; and they that turn many to righteousness as the stars for ever and ever. Lest I unduly tax your patience, I will conclude my observations by suggesting to our esteemed brethren in the Ministry, that in conducting our public worship, the expository style of preaching would, in my opinion, be a useful innovation. In the early Church the practice of constructing a sermon on the basis of a single verse was a thing unknown. In the second and third centuries the preacher took as the foundation of his teaching, not an isolated text, but the whole paragraph previously read. Many reasons for the adoption of this plan will readily occur; and if some of your hearers undervalue it at first, yet if judiciously handled, it will soon command their thankful approval. Personal knowledge of its profitable use in the mother country, together with the urgent need of making known the whole council of God, has prompted the hint for your consideration. Faith, says Cyprian, is not strengthened by oratory, but by the truth itself. What does the Bible teach, is the supreme question in every age, and the Christian ministry is expected, is divinely ordained to answer it—to answer it faithfully, without hesitation, without reserve—believing that what was true in the first century is true in the nineteenth; and never must the ministers of Christ forget they are not judges but expounders of His Word.

'truth is ever true,
In this age or the last; and error false
To-day as it was yesterday; no age
Can outgrow truth, or can afford to part
With the tried wisdom of the past, with words
That centuries have sifted, and on which
Ages have set their seal, and handed down;
Guard then those ancient wells, those living springs
From which our fathers drank, and were refreshed.'

A vote of thanks was passed to the Rev. Mr. Burdett, on the motion of the Rev. Mr. WILLIAMSON, seconded by the Rev. D. FENWICK, and the proceedings closed with the benediction.

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY OF NEW SOUTH WALES.

The monthly meeting of the Council of the Agricultural Society of New South Wales was held yesterday. There were present Messrs. R. G. Higgins, E. F. Stephen, E. B. Woodhouse, G. Maiden, G. Loder, G. S. Yeo, A. Bruce, Jenkins, F. N. Alldritt, T. Dawson, E. Ridge, J. Thompson, C. H. Humphery, J. Abbott, and G. F. Want, hon. secretary.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed, also the minutes of two meeting of the Executive Committee.

Mr. STEPHEN said that the Executive Committee, at Mr. Joubert's request, had allowed him the use of one of the society's rooms as an office, pending the approval of the Council, but he did not think it was advisable now to let him have it after the spirit displayed by him in his letter to the Herald; and as since then, when he had offered to assist the society, he had heard that Mr. Joubert was trying to form another society in opposition to the Agricultural Society, he moved that the recommendation of the Executive Committee allowing Mr. Joubert the use of the room be not confirmed.

Mr. MAIDEN thought they had no business to give Mr. Joubert the use of the room.

Mr. BRUCE said they would be putting themselves in a false light, if they allowed him to remain here after the spirit he had displayed.

Eventually, on the motion of Dr. JENKINS, it was decided that Mr. Joubert be allowed the room for the month of September.

The next business had reference to certain goods, &c., belonging to the society being allowed to remain in the iron store until arrangements were made for the future carrying on of the operations of the society.

The HON. SECRETARY said that the arrangements were completed with this exception, and that the £500 was now ready to hand over.

A private letter from the Town Clerk to Mr. Joubert was read as follows:—"Before you give up your keys would it not be as well for you to write to me officially respecting the matter of the lease? Your private note cannot be dealt with, and unless the acceptance of the terms of my letter is immediately conveyed to me I am afraid the whole affair will be quashed." To this there was a memo. attached that Mr. Joubert had written officially.

The CHAIRMAN said the question was what they were to do with their goods if the Council agreed to comply with the request of the society.

Mr. ABBOTT thought the secretary and some one else should go and see the Town Clerk and ascertain the position, and ask for forbearance in the matter.

Mr. MAIDEN said he could not see why the secretary and another could not go and interview the Town Clerk and the Council, and settle the matter in a few moments. As to the possession of the iron stores that might well be left until afterwards. He moved that Mr. Want and Mr. Stephen wait upon the municipal authorities, and arrange for the settlement and the final cancelling of the lease.

The resolution was agreed to.

Mr. BRUCE moved,—"That Mr. Joubert be requested to produce the information already asked for with reference to the ownership of the iron stores on Prince Alfred Park."

Dr. JENKINS said he did not believe the Council claimed the stores.

The resolution was unanimously agreed to.

It was decided that the meeting at its rising adjourn until this day week, and that pending the appointment of a permanent secretary Mr. Want, the hon. secretary, be empowered to engage what clerical assistance he may require.

Mr. WOODHOUSE gave notice of motion,—"That a secretary be appointed at a salary of £250 per annum, with 5 per cent. on the subscriptions received by the society."

WINE STATISTICS OF EUROPE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Whilst vine growers are stirring on matters connected with that industry, it may prove interesting to give due publicity to the following, which I find in the Giornale di Agricultura, sent to me by last mail, and which has been officially prepared for the Italian Minister of Agriculture. From this it appears that the annual produce of wine averages in France 55,604,000 hectolitres; Italy, 31,500,000 hectolitres; Spain, 20,000,000 hectolitres; Portugal, 5,000,000 hectolitres; Austro-Hungary, 12,640,000 hectolitres; Germany, 6,501,000 hectolitres; Switzerland, 900,000 hectolitres; Russia and Turkey in Europe, 2,134,000 hectolitres; Greece with Cyprus, 1,115,000 hectolitres; Roumania, 687,571 hectolitres. The total production of Europe is 146,121,646 hectolitres, or about 3,214,676,250 gallons. Since the invasion of the Phylloxera in France, the average production of that country has fallen off by about 8,000,000 hectolitres a year.

Yours, &c.,
JULES JOUBERT.

COPELAND GOLD-FIELD.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

COPELAND, SEPT. 1.

At the Rainbow machine, 28 tons from Reed and Massey's claim Melbourne Reef has been crushed for a total yield of 137½ ozs., nearly 5 ozs. per ton. Prince Edward machine, right hand branch, 35 tons from No. 2, Royal Bengal Tiger Reef, Collins and party, has been put through for a yield of 63 ozs. This claim appears likely to become a very valuable property. At present, I believe, there are only two men working it. It is a flat reef, and large, and if it should continue as rich as the last crushing, properly worked it would be a fine fortune. The sale of the Prince Edward machine has been postponed until the 17th instant. Crips and party, Rose and Thistle line of reef, have cut the reef in their vertical shaft 60 feet from the surface. The quartz shows excellent gold. The reef is small rather—about 10 inches thick. May and party, No. 1 West Rose and Thistle, are prospecting a reef in their claim which yields very encouraging prospects. The main reef is worked by two separate parties of tributers. Armstrong and party, No. 1 East, are still sinking, with no important change. Centennial Reef: Prospectors' claim, Tassell and party, are still raising very good stone, and have about 70 tons at grass, including seconds, when Burley's machine is in proper order. This party have resumed sinking. No. 1 N.: Ross and party have their vertical shaft down between 80 and 90 feet. The late heavy rains has compelled them to suspend work for a few days, but they are pushing along their work with very creditable vigour, and expect to cut the reef between 20 and 30 feet deeper. No. 1 S.: Driscoll, Hicks, and party are working away with not very bright prospects at present. No. 2 S.: Lukey and party are raising stone which is estimated to be payable at least. Hidden Treasure Reef: Cameron, Hicks, and party are still raising excellent stone from their northern drive, 200-feet level. No. 1 S.: Saxby, Atkins, and party are making preparations to start a tunnel from the gully along the course of the reef, which will be between 300 and 400 feet below the highest point of the spur where the reef crosses it. No. 1 N.: Bensusan and party have two men still sinking, and expect to cut the reef about eight feet deeper. Mountain Maid G. M. Co. are raising very good stone. Some stone raised last Saturday was very good, showing very coarse gold. On the Rosette reef Caston and party are raising very good stone from a large reef. Hughes and Procter have struck very excellent gold in their newly discovered reef, the Black Prince, Bowman falls.

SAFETY CAGES FOR MINES.

A Board of Inquiry has been sitting during the present year in Victoria. In their report to the Minister for Mines there are figured plans of Seymour's, Pryor's, and White's safety cages and detaching hooks; and the report concludes as follows:—

"Having carefully considered all the evidence tendered at the various sittings held in the leading mining centres, conjointly with the result of the trials at Sandhurst, the Board beg to submit the following resolutions embodying their conclusions on the subject under investigation:—

"1. That the preponderance of evidence given by miners and others qualified to form an opinion, is strongly in favour of the adoption of a safety-cage for general use in the mines of this colony, provided that a reliable invention can be brought forward, and its practical utility satisfactorily determined.

"2. That, in view of the rapid increase of cage accidents, and supported by the evidence before them, the Board are of opinion that some special provision should be made to check such a prolific source of danger as is shown to exist in the working of the shaft and machinery employed for winding purposes.

"3. That this check could be imposed by means of such a regulation as that at present contained in the Statute, i.e.:—'Every cage used in a mine shall be fitted with special and suitable appliances, to prevent its sudden fall down a shaft, and also to prevent its coming into contact with the poppet-heads.' The Board, however, consider that mine proprietors should be permitted to exercise their own discretion in the selection of safety-cages, but safety-hooks and balance-catches must be used in connection with every cage.

"4. That the Board have witnessed trials of all the inventions brought under their notice, and from the result of their observations the members are of opinion that the adoption of these safety appliances will afford additional security to the large section of the community engaged in mining operations."

The report can no doubt be purchased from the Government Printer, at Melbourne, and those who are interested in the working of mines would do well to examine it in the light of their special requirements.

OUR BRISBANE LETTER.

BRISBANE, August 29.

Such is life! The certainties of to-day become the uncertainties of to-morrow, until, under the sun, we are sure of nothing. A week ago, as such of your readers who read the Brisbane letter will remember, a stone wall stood solid across the field of politics. There seemed no escape from the difficulty—no end to the session. The stonewall has now crumbled to pieces, and after all—unless the probable should again, by some unexpected turn in the tricksy wheel, become the improbable—our members of Parliament will be freed from their duties within a month from the present date. The men who threatened to immolate themselves on the shrine of political duty, have surrendered, one might almost say unconditionally, and, in a word, Estimates and the rest are actually going with a run.

During the six-and-forty hours' sitting of last week, Mr. Griffith, the leader of the Opposition, did not appear in the House after midnight. He was engaged in an important case in the Supreme Court, and deemed it his duty to be loyal to his clients. This seems to have given offence to some of his party, who thought he should have forsaken his legitimate business to assist in the miscellaneous revels that were going on in Parliament. On Monday, when the House met, Mr. Griffith asked for an adjournment for a couple of hours to enable one or two country weather-bound members of his party to arrive and attend a caucus which had been summoned. The adjournment was granted, and after tea the leader of the Opposition formally announced that the obstruction of last week would henceforth cease. The hon. gentleman hinted that he was not exactly at one with a few of his followers who were eager to continue the fight, and it was pretty well known that they had reluctantly accepted his advice, which in effect was this:—"Further obstruction would be merely a waste of time. We should gain nothing beyond what we have gained, for we have done sufficient to prove to the country that we accept the Government policy under the strongest protest." On Tuesday, however, an unexpected conflagration enlivened the proceedings. There were three gentlemen who had not attended on the previous day, and who were furious when they found that the colours had been hauled down during their absence. One of them uprose and expended his anger in a direct attack upon the leader of the Opposition, whom he called "a thing," and whom he accused of having sold his party. This gentleman, Mr. Kingsford, is one of the sobersides of the House, an extremely moderate, straight man, who has stuck to the Liberal party through evil and good report; one of those transparently honest legislators to whom all sections listen with attention whenever he speaks. The outbreak was therefore all the more amazing, and the blow all the more telling. But he stood alone. One after another of the members on his own side, and Ministers and members on the other, defended the leader of the Opposition, who sat evidently affected by the position in which he found himself. The Premier and the Colonial Secretary did not say much, but they said it in exquisite taste. As Mr. M'Ilwraith remarked—there is a sense of fair play in the House that is stronger than party feeling; at the same time there is no knowing where this interlude of sentiment would have stopped had it not been for the merry leader of the "sub-section," Mr. Morehead, who saw his way to a bit of original business. He protested against the wholesale adulation of Mr. Griffith; said that he was ashamed to see the members of the Government he supports laying on their flattery with a trowel, and asked the House at large whether they wanted to make the attacked man believe he was a demi-god. The hon. member's remarks acted as cold water upon the glowing coals of sympathy. So, for the time, the matter ended with a general impression that the attack upon the leader of the Opposition had been overdone. Mr. Griffith, of course, lost no time in resigning his leadership, and of course the Opposition met, and almost unanimously begged him to remain their trusted general. The next day Mr. Griffith formally announced the fact to the House, with the addition that he had consented to withdraw his resignation.

As, singular to relate, the Opposition have no metropolitan organ to defend them, it is difficult to know precisely what public opinion is upon this occurrence, but I should say the Liberal party as a whole will be with Mr. Griffith, especially as the Ministerial Press has too hastily jumped at the conclusion that the Opposition, as a party, is dead and buried. It has been set about, within the last day or two, that if the obstruction had continued during the present week the Government were ready to make some concession—a very easy statement to make now the difficulty is at an end. Not the least amusing feature of the episode was the holding of a public meeting at the Town Hall, on Monday night, to support the Opposition in their course of obstruction. The meeting, anyhow, was not a success, but the result of the caucus meeting, held an hour before, having been communicated to the speakers, they were naturally thrown upon their beam ends by the sudden change of front. The Government adroitly seized the opportunity and pushed on their Loan Estimates, and were afterwards able to get through a surprising amount of Estimates-in-Chief. The voting on the one or two divisions on the Loan Estimates gave ample room for suspecting that some members of the Opposition were not sorry at being relieved from the corner in which their constituents had pushed them; it is always open to them now to declare that they would have held out to the bitter end, if they had been permitted. However, trunk lines and branch lines, harbour and river works, together with the minor items, were voted without any opposition that is worth mentioning. Thus the session has unexpectedly arrived at the beginning of the end. There are already premonitory symptoms of weariness on the part of members. Two couples have already paired off for the remainder of the session: the Government whip was scarcely able to make a house last Monday; and motions and questions are becoming fewer every day. The Premier, seeing the situation at a glance, is determined to make the running while fortune favours him, and will endeavour to crowd a quantity of work into the next fortnight; about which time the innocents should be brought forward for their annual massacre.

The Bishop of Northern Queensland seems to be not only delighted, but entranced, with his new home. Either that, or he has fooled us to the top of our bent with malice aforethought—a sin we cannot, for very shame, lay to the charge of so right reverend a dignitary. He has praised our public buildings, as to some of which many of us who have been accustomed to them, prefer to maintain a discreet silence; he is delighted with the refinements and culture of our homes; he is full of wonder and admiration at our telegraph wires and railroads, and sees a machinery of civilization that would serve a vast empire. He has ridden on Cobb's coach, and seen a corrobery. The sum total of his experiences is the conviction that Australia, in many respects, outstrips the mother country. In several of his sermons, he has sent away his congregation with the impression that this is his unhesitating belief. If, as the ancient proverb puts it, first impressions are lasting, this is well. Everybody will rejoice to know that Dr. Staunton is happy in his new home. The only doubt that rises faintly in our minds when we hear his glowing appreciation of town, country, bush scrub, climate, people, is whether he has been in the colony long enough to form an adequate opinion. Will he tell us the same story after he has tasted the rigour of a summer at Mackay and the tropical diocese around and beyond? Hitherto he has received a fine welcome: but there are other welcomes to come—to wit, prickly-heat, mosquitoes, sand-flies, &c., &c. Still, the right rev. prelate seems to be full of zeal, and to enter into his duties with that missionary spirit which it is good to see and to have. I hope some friend has warned him that his zeal will be put to the test. Doubtless, the Bishop of Brisbane has done so, as his own uphill, and at times positively disheartening labour in Queensland, warrants. The new bishop is a good preacher; he is unfashionable enough to do without the obnoxious manuscript, and thereby obeys to the letter the injunction to preach (and not read) the gospel to every creature. Unless the churchmen of Northern are different from those of Southern Queensland, he will require a large stock of sermons upon lukewarmness in all its bearings. His energies will find free scope in rounding up his flocks with the whip of entreaty, and the lash of reproach. It may be, however, that our Northern friends are in the habit of testifying to the faith that is in them in a practical way; hereabouts an appeal to the breeches pockets of the brethren shuts them up like a whelk. Let us hope at any rate that Dr. Staunton is prepared for supineness and heavy discouragement. At Toowoomba, the other day, he is reported to have informed a public meeting that he was astonished to find a piano in the colony, and had been led to believe he would have to live upon mutton, damper, and bananas. This rather indicates that before leaving England he had shared in the ordinary Englishman's crass ignorance upon Australian affairs. It will be somewhat of an "eye-opener" to him, if he also formed his notions of the Episcopal Church of Queensland, upon the State-aided, fatly-endowed establishment of the old country, and the splendid organisation and spirit of his big busy London parish. In truth, we all wish that his lordship's measure of success and happiness may fairly brim over, but think it would have stood a better chance of so doing if he had waited a while before arriving at such pronounced opinions in our favour.

An attempt, yesterday, to reduce our Governor's salary from £5000 to £4000, met with swift and decided failure. Mr. Meston, the young member for Rosewood, introduced a bill which had that object, but the Assembly, without wasting much time upon it, ordered that it be read six months hence. Had it been a proposal to increase the salary by £1000, there would have been a unanimous objection, in consideration of the present state of the colony; but, as was pointed out, the only argument that might have been listened to, namely, that the temporary depression of the colony warranted a reduction, was destroyed by the fact that the present Governor's salary cannot be touched. Naturally, a reference was again made to the Governor's Chinese servants, but it was coldly received, and the deserved eulogies passed upon his Excellency's character and intelligent interest in the welfare of all classes of the community, showed that the Assembly has come to its senses, since the unpleasant discussion which took place when the Estimates were introduced.

PARIS EXHIBITION COMMISSION.

The final meeting of the Commissioners for the Paris Exhibition was held yesterday afternoon, at the Free Library. There were present the Honorable Sir John Hay, K.C.M.G. (President of the Legislative Council, and one of the Vice-Presidents of the Commission); Mr. W. M. Alderson, J.P.; Mr. John Alger; the Honorable W. Busby, M.L.C.; Mr. W. A. Brodribb, F.R.G.S.; Mr. J. J. Calvert; Mr. Edward Combes, C.M.G.; M.L.A.; Mr. Henry Halloran, G.M.G., the Honorable Thomas Holt, M.L.C.; Mr. Augustus Morris; Mr. Joseph Paxton, J.P.; Mr. William Wallis, Mr. R. D. Adams, Mr. John Mackenzie, F.G.S.; and Mr. C. S. Wilkinson, F.G.S. In the absence of the Honorable Sir James Martin the President, who was prevented by reason of ill health from attending, the Honourable Sir John Hay was called to the chair. Among the correspondence read, was a letter from Sir Phillip Cunliffe Owen to Mr. Combes, the Executive Commissioner at Paris, informing him that the gold medals and diplomas had been forwarded to the Agent-General for New South Wales, and that the other medals and diplomas would be sent to the colony as soon as they could be got ready. The secretary reported that the medals had been received in Sydney; and authority was given to deliver them to the exhibitors to whom they were awarded. The chairman referred to the autograph letter sent by the Prince of Wales with a copy of his portrait to each member of the Commission, as a mark of his association with them in the representation of the United Kingdom and the colonies at the Paris Exhibition; and on the motion of the Hon. Sir John Hay it was unanimously resolved:—"1. That the Commissioners, in placing on record their most grateful acknowledgement to his Royal Highness the President of the Imperial Commission, for the gift of his portrait to each of the members of this commission, desire to express their profound sense of obligation to him for the important and valuable assistance which he, in conjunction with the officers of the Royal Commission, has given to the representation of the products of New South Wales at the Paris Universal Exhibition of 1878, and to convey their warm appreciation of the interest which his Royal Highness has been pleased to take in all matters concerning the welfare of this portion of her Majesty's dominions. 2. That his Excellency the Governor-in-Chief be requested to communicate a copy of the minute to his Royal Highness, the President of the Imperial Commission." The report to his Excellency the Governor was considered, amended, and affirmed; and authority was given for the payment of the amounts due to exhibitors whose goods had been sold on their account at the Exhibition. On the motion of Mr. Augustus Morris, it was unanimously resolved:—

"That the Commissioners appointed to make arrangements for the representation of New South Wales at the Paris Universal Exhibition of 1878 hereby tender to Mr. Charles Robinson, the secretary of the Commission, their unanimous thanks for the patience, cheerfulness, and courtesy which he has invariably displayed in his intercourse with them, and they desire to express their appreciation of his admirable performance of the labour incident to the work of the Commission, and especially to the preparation of the final report."

SYDNEY TRAMROAD.

The line of tramroad to connect the central parts of the city with the Redfern Railway Terminus is virtually completed. All that remains to be done is the finishing of that portion in the immediate neighbourhood of the railway station. The line inside the grounds which form the precincts of the terminus is made in a manner somewhat different from that of the rest of the line; it is being pitch paved inside the rails, and for about 18 inches on each side. When that work is brought to a close the line will be ready to receive the vehicles intended to be run upon it. These were shipped from New York in the Dryad, which arrived here yesterday. About a fortnight probably will be occupied in unshipping them and fitting them for use.

It will be recollected that the Act of Parliament authorising the construction of the tramroad was assented to on the 7th May last. The work was commenced on the 15th of May, so that it has occupied sixteen weeks in performance. The line is 1 mile 34 chains in length, running from the Redfern Terminus, along Pitt-street as far as Belmore Gardens, across those Gardens to Elizabeth-street, and continues along that thoroughfare to Hunter-street. It therefore intersects or passes the following streets:—Devonshire-street, Gipps-street, Hay-street, Campbell-street, Goulburn-street, Liverpool-street, Bathurst-street, Park-street, Market-street, and King-street: and its northern terminus is within a few yards of Hunter-street. The Commissioner for Railways is charged with the construction, completion, and maintenance of this tramroad, and has all the powers necessary for fully carrying into effect the purposes of the Act, subject to certain rules, regulations, and responsibilities in relation thereto which affect him under the Railways Act.

The line is a single one, with a loop at the northern end of Elizabeth-street, another near the junction of Elizabeth and Liverpool streets, and one at the Railway Terminus. At each of these loops there are closing spring points, for the purpose of allowing the cars coming from opposite directions to pass each other. The gauge is 4 feet 8½ inches, as prescribed by the Act. In order to obtain a suitable bed for the roadway the streets along which the line runs were excavated to the depth of 18 inches, and the bottom of the trench was laid with a stratum of concrete to the extent of 6 inches. Transverse sleepers of hardwood were then laid, and on these were placed the longitudinal sleepers, which were bound to the transverse sleepers by cast-iron brackets. The rails are Larsen's patent, about 4 inches wide, with a groove near the outer side of the upper surface to receive the flanges of the wheels. The rails are secured to the longitudinal sleepers by dog spikes. The space between the rails and that on each of the outer sides to the width of 18 inches is paved with bluestone cubes from Melbourne. This kind of pavement has proved, from the experience of countries where tramroads have been in operation for many years, to be the most durable, and so far superior to wood or asphalte. There is in course of construction a station yard for the tramway at the corner of Belmore Road and Pitt-street, where there will be sheds for the cars and engines, and a siding will connect the main line with this station.

The rolling stock will consist of six cars and four locomotive engines, which have just arrived from America by the ship Dryad. Each car is 36 feet long and 8 feet 6 inches wide. It has two covered compartments. The body of the car, having cross seats, is capable of accommodating sixty passengers, and the upper compartment, with longitudinal back-to-back seats, affords sitting room for thirty passengers. The seats in the body of the car are reached by a stepping-board from the side, the upper seats by staircases at the ends of the vehicle. Provision is made for shelter from rain and wind by curtains at the sides of the cars. Each car is carried on two bogies, and is fitted with a break at each end.

The four motors, or locomotive engines, were manufactured by the Baldwin Locomotive Company, in Philadelphia, after the most recent models, and they are smokeless and noiseless. They are 12 tons each in weight. The rails and ironwork were supplied by the Eskbank Ironworks at Lithgow.

It is understood that there will be three trains running the line, one starting every ten minutes. The fares for single tickets will be 2d., but the whole arrangements for fares have yet to be matured, and will then have to be submitted for the approval of the Governor and Executive Council.

Premises have been taken in Stephen-court, Elizabeth-street, which will afford accommodation as waiting-rooms for ladies and gentlemen and for the traffic manager's offices.

Should the construction of the line and the working of it prove efficient, it will provide a great convenience for the mass of the citizens. All the thoroughfares which carry the heaviest traffic have been tapped by the line, and its intermediate situation will render it approachable on almost equal terms from the extreme east and west sides of the city. Whether it will interfere in any considerable degree with the ordinary vehicle traffic of Elizabeth-street will depend chiefly on the maintenance of the street roadway on a level with the line.

THE INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION.

The grounds immediately surrounding the "Garden Palace" now show unmistakable signs of approaching completion. The saw-mill, whose busy whirr has been heard without interruption, night and day, from the beginning of the operations, is now hushed, and with its companion blacksmiths' shop is being torn down and carted away. The dining-rooms and offices on the western side are also suffering demolition and removal, and the work of erecting ticket offices and preparing the ground suitably for the main entrance is going on there. Mr. Charles Moore, the Director of the Botanic Gardens, is satisfactorily proceeding with his duty of laying out the grounds. This he is better enabled to do, now that the loose building material is being carted away. The sloping terrace and lawn on the eastern side look beautifully fresh and green, and the trees and plants laid out beyond greatly enhance the charming view. So far as it can be done, the ground surrounding the building is being turfed, but the constant traffic and the lumber in the shape of empty packing cases and material waiting to be removed retards the work to a considerable extent. Along Macquarie-street there is already a fine plantation, which will make a very attractive margin to that boundary of the grounds. The obelisk for the coal and gold trophy on the eastern side is in process of erection, and several large blocks of coal have been laid to form the base of it. The upper portion, which is to represent the gold, is being constructed in sections within the building, and the gilding of it is nearly completed. The preparations internally are going on with excellent rapidity. The workmen of the building are not yet out of portions of the nave and the transept, but they cause no hindrance. In the vicinity of the dome there is a great deal of apparent confusion, caused by the scaffolding required for the decoration of the dome, and work is very brisk there. The British exhibitors are opening out their goods with commendable celerity, and some splendid showcases are exposed. The Australian colonies, with the United States and Japan, are all at work in earnest, opening out their exhibits. Queensland is the most advanced, and that colony's energetic commissioner, Mr. Gresley Lukin, affirms that he will be ready a week before the time. The European exhibitors have made some progress, but a little more despatch is desirable. Various trophies are in course of erection in the nave and transept.

Further experiments were made last night with the electric light at the Garden Palace. One light was placed on the southern tower, and another inside the building over the German and French courts, and the results were considered very satisfactory; so satisfactory indeed that it is anticipated the unpacking will be proceeded with to-night by the aid of the lights. Mr. Maguire and Mr. Korpsch, of the Telegraph Department, superintended the arrangements.

In accordance with an invitation issued by the Commission the representatives of the various friendly societies met the Sub-committee on the External Ceremonial at the Executive Commissioner's Office on Wednesday afternoon, about twenty-four different societies being represented. Mr. Jennings, in a few words, stated the object of the meeting, and the wish of his Excellency the Governor and of the Government that the members of the different societies should participate in the ceremony at the opening of the Exhibition. After some discussion, in which the question of precedence between some of the societies arose, it was unanimously decided that the friendly and trade societies would take part in the opening ceremony, and that the order of precedence be left to the sub-committee entrusted with the carrying out of the ceremonial, of whom the following were present:—Mr. P. A. Jennings, C.M.G.; Mr. John Davies, M.L.A.; Mr. R. Burdett Smith, M.L.A.; and Mr. Fosbery, Inspector-General of Police.

In connection with the opening of the Exhibition, it has been intimated to the authorities that, among others who are likely to be present from Victoria at the opening ceremony, are the following:—The Hon. G. Berry (Premier), Sir Bryan O'Loghlen (Attorney-General), Sir Charles Gavan Duffy, K.C.M.G. (Speaker), Sir Samuel Wilson, the Hon. J. M. Grant (Minister of Justice), the Hon. W. C. Smith (Minister of Education), the Hon. F. Longmore (Minister for Lands), the Hon. J. B. Patterson (Postmaster-General), the Hon. J. Woods (Minister for Railways), the Hon. P. Lalor (Minister of Customs), the Hons. H. Cuthbert, John Cumming, C. J. Jenner, R. Reid, W. Wilson, and W. J. Clarke, Ms.L.C.; Messrs. J. Andrew, H. Bell, G. Bellson, J. Bosisto, R. Bowden, A. T. Clark, E. J. Dixon, J. L. Dow, J. Dwyer, J. Ferguson, G. R. Fincham, J. H. Graves, Thomas Hunt, R. de B. Johnstone, G. D. Langridge, J. Laurens, W. J. O'Hea, J. Orr, R. Richardson, A. K. Smith, J. Storey, and E. L. Zox, Ms.L.A.; Messrs. T. Loder, W. M. K. Vale, J. M'Ilwraith, J. B. Were, J. D. Ploos Von Amstel, and a number of others. Most of these gentlemen are Victorian Commissioners.

Amongst the many things that have come under our notice intended for the International Exhibition as specimens of colonial workmanship, we may mention two iron bedsteads, from the manufactory of Messrs. S. Forster and Sons, Harrington-street. The one is a half-tester, the footrail of which contains about 200 pieces, all of wrought iron, worked into scrolls and flowers, and at a distance would be taken for an ordinary casting. It is left in its rough state for exhibition, and no doubt will be closely examined by ironworkers. The other is a four-post bedstead, enamelled in black and gold, and some who have seen it express a doubt if the enamelling were done in the colony, which doubt alone expresses a high opinion of the work.

The Printer's Register of July 7 states that twenty thousand copies of the British Trade Journal for June are to be reproduced at the Sydney Exhibition. They will be printed from plates sent hence, the operation being carried on in the main building, and in the centre of all the British exhibits. It has been arranged to distribute these 20,000 copies by post throughout the Australian group, including Fiji and New Caledonia. Copies will also be distributed among visitors to the Exhibition by a local agent specially detailed for this work.

Mr. L. Macquarie, boat-builder, of Battery Point (says the Hobart Town Mercury) has just completed the five-oared whaleboat, which is to be sent to the Sydney Exhibition. It is built of Tasmanian woods, her dimensions being—length, 33 feet; breadth, 5 feet 5 inches; and depth, 23½ inches. Her keel is of white stringybark, as are also the gunwale and mouldings. The stern-post and stem, which is protected by a brass stemband, are of Port Davey pine. The planking and lining are of the same material, the knotty wood which has been used showing out very prettily, whilst the timbers are of blackwood, and the knees bull oak. The wood-ends are fastened by brass screws, both forward and aft, and her timbers have been double fastened throughout. The risings are fastened with copper through the timbers, and all the principal fastenings in the knees are brass and copper, instead of iron. She is fitted with a rudder and tiller, the former having brass bands and copper pintels, and the rowlocks and mast clamp are also brass. A plug has been invented by Mr. Macquarie, and is made of indiarubber, with a brass bush and flange. The oars are not of Tasmanian wood, being cut out of ash. Three of them are 17 feet long, and the other two 16 feet, whilst the steer-oar to steer over the quarter, where a rowlock is fixed, is 20 feet long. The boat is bright varnished inside and outside to show off the woods and workmanship. She is constructed so as to be employed either with ship or bay whaling, being fitted with hoisting bolts. Another coat of varnish has to be put on her, the damp weather preventing that already on from thoroughly drying. The whaleboat is built solely by Mr. L. Macquarie, and for neatness and strength is not to be surpassed, and Mr. Macquarie is to be highly complimented on the manner in which he has turned her out. She is to be delivered to the Commission in time for shipment to Sydney, where she will, without doubt, be greatly admired, and ought to find a ready purchaser.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I was in Paris in the spring of last year, prior to the opening of the Exhibition. Tickets of admission (one franc each) could be purchased in almost every street. The hotels from the 1st May increased their charges 50 per cent.

Yours, &c.,
Burwood, September 3. E. T. PENFOLD.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Permit me to express a fervent hope that the Commissioners will be favourably disposed towards opening the Exhibition Building in the evening—at least three times in the week; otherwise, I greatly fear the industrious multitude which ought to gain most valuable lessons from a grand display of the world's precious treasures in science, art, skill, and ingenuity, will obtain slight and meagre opportunity for inspecting the "show," however anxious so to do. Unless by breaking into ordinary work hours, and suffering financially thereby, as well as risking their situations, labouring men dare not venture upon calm and studious visits to the exhibition; for Saturday afternoon finds them so weary and exhausted with the week's toil, that it cannot fairly be reckoned as an eligible chance. But, were the gates open for admission at night time during the early part of the week, working men, their wives and families, would together avail themselves of the boon, and feast their eyes and improve their minds with the rare and attractive views presented in this "palace of industry." Let us hope the occasion will be propitious, and the revenue to the Exhibition will be thus swelled by contributions of many thousands of pounds sterling from the pockets of the working classes.

What objections militate against opening the Exhibition at night? Danger from fire may be, by vigilant care and using proper appliances, reduced to a soupçon of possibility, and there will always be a strong force of willing hands present after sundown to instantly quench any peril from that source. I am sure the insurance would be imperceptibly affected thereby. The extra attendance of national exhibitors or their agents, and increased watchfulness necessary by night, might fairly be urged as a complaint, were those items not amply compensated for by increased publicity, appreciation, and general information dispersed abroad. And, really, I think foreign exhibitors would gracefully accord the advantages sought in return for the moral and material benefits derived. With fire-brigades, insurance agents, police, special detectives, and a grateful public assembled, there would be no hazard to dread from fire, spoilation, or any other damage; so pray open the Exhibition at night.

September 2. LUX.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Might I trespass on your space to suggest that the Naval, Permanent, and Volunteer Forces, when in uniform, be admitted to the International Exhibition free.

LAW REPORT.

SUPREME COURT.—Wednesday, September 3.

In Banco.—(Before their Honors Mr. Justice Faucett and Sir William Manning.)

HARRIS V. SOLOMON.

This was an action on an overdue promissory note. A verdict went for the plaintiff by default, and execution was issued for the amount of the judgment. The defendant, being in embarrassed circumstances, assigned his estate by a deed purporting to be under the Act. The trustees took possession of certain goods belonging to the estate, which the Sheriff seized. An interpleader order was thereupon taken out, under which the trustees elected to sell the goods, and paid their value, £120, into Court to abide the result of the interpleader order. Solomon afterwards had to sequestrate his estate, and Mr. Sandeman was duly appointed official assignee thereof.

Mr. Darley, Q.C. (Mr. Pilcher with him), instructed by Mr. S. C. Brown, appeared for the official assignee, who had issued a summons calling upon the trustees to show cause why the sum of money (£120); paid into Court under the interpleader order, should not be paid out to the official assignee. The goods had not been sold under process of the Court.

Mr. M. H. Stephen, Q.C., and Mr. C. J. Manning, instructed by Mr. De Lissa, appeared for the execution creditors, Messrs. Harris and Ackman. The money was paid into Court under the interpleader order, to await the decision of the issue thereby settled.

After the conclusion of the arguments,

The Court held that the official assignee had shown no title to the money in Court.

HARRIS V. SOLOMON.

This was a motion by the plaintiff that the money paid into Court should be paid out to them.

Mr. M. H. Stephen, Q.C., and Mr. C. J. Manning, instructed by Mr. De Lissa, appeared for the plaintiff, in support of the motion. Mr. Pilcher, instructed by Messrs. M'Carthy, Robertson, and Fisher, showed cause on behalf of the trustees. The motion—as some of the parties concerned had not been served with notice of the application—was ordered to stand over till next Tuesday.

PETERSEN V. PROROSE.

This was an action of trespass. By arrangement a verdict had been entered for the plaintiff, with leave reserved to the defendant to move the Court to set that verdict aside, and to have a verdict entered for him on certain points reserved.

Mr. M. H. Stephen, Q.C., and Mr. C. B. Stephen, instructed by Messrs. Fitzhardinge and Son, agent for Mr. Fell, appeared for the defendant to make a rule nisi, on those grounds reserved, absolute.

Mr. Darley, Q.C., and Mr. Simpson, instructed by Messrs. M'Carthy, Robertson, and Fisher, appeared to show cause. It appeared that the defendant's father had selected land for his children, and placed upon it the necessary improvements. The selections were afterwards cancelled for a breach of the residence condition; and after forfeiture the defendant selected the land so improved, and the plaintiff, the leaseholder out of whose lease the land had been selected, brought an action of trespass against the defendant on his going into occupation of the land so again selected.

The Court discharged the rule with costs. Lands improved were not open for selection, and by the Act, if a selection had been improved and then became forfeited for any cause, the Crown lessee, out of whose lease the selection had been made, had the use of the improvements during his lease, on the expiration of which they became the fee-simple of the Crown. As against the lessee, the Crown could not give up their right to the improvements so made; he had the use of them, and of the land upon which they were erected. Their Honors regretted that the law was so. When the lease was renewed the improvements should be taken into account, as the land might be put up for sale under the Act, and the defendant so get the value of his improvements, which would enhance the value of the land.

MAUND V. GROT.

This was an action for the amount of a dishonoured promissory note. The trial was had at Armidale last April, before his Honor Mr. Acting-Judge Stephen, when, on his Honor's direction, a verdict was given for the plaintiff. A rule nisi to set that verdict aside was afterwards granted by the Court, on the grounds of misdirection, that, under the pleas as they stood, a verdict, even on the defendant's own evidence, would have to pass for the plaintiff.

Mr. Want, instructed by Mr. Brennan (agent for Mr. Boyd, of Glen Innes), now moved to make that rule absolute. Mr. C. B. Stephen (the Attorney-General with him), instructed by Messrs. Fitzhardinge and Son (agents for Mr. M. H. Fitzhardinge, of Glen Innes), appeared for the plaintiff, to show cause.

The virtual defence was that the note sued upon had been an accommodation note, which the defendant failed to make out.

The Court discharged the rule, with costs. The direction of the Judge was right on the pleadings as they appeared on the record. The special agreement attempted to be set up should have been pleaded, to allow the plaintiff to meet it.

EXTENDED SITTINGS FOR CAUSES.

Jury Court.—(Before his Honor Mr. Justice Windeyer, and a jury of four.)

DAVENPORT AND ANOTHER V. HUNGERFORD.

Jury: Messrs. John See, Samuel Wright, Thomas Woods, and George Richardson.

Mr. Davis and Mr. Pilcher, instructed by Messrs. Lyons, Creagh, and Williams, appeared for the plaintiffs; Mr. Simpson and Sir George Innes, instructed by Messrs. Deane and Deane, appeared for the defendant.

This was an action for trespass for damages. Messrs. Davenport and Fisher, extensive graziers and run holders in Victoria, Queensland, and this colony, were the plaintiffs; and Thomas Hungerford, M.L.A., was the defendant. The plaintiffs were seeking damages for the trespasses of the defendant's cattle, from his Gnomery station, on their sheep station Tatala.

After the jury had been empanelled, Mr. Davis, for the plaintiffs, applied that the damages claimed in the declaration might be increased from £500 to £2000. Mr. Simpson opposed the application, which his Honor refused. The defendant paid 40s. into Court. It appeared that the plaintiff Fisher was resident in Victoria, and the plaintiff Davenport resided in Queensland, and that their stations in this colony were under the control and management of their manager, Mr. David Jolly. The plaintiffs' head sheep station, called Bundaleer, had no water frontage, and had to depend upon artificial storage. For the purpose of having a place with frontage to water for a summer station, on which their sheep could be shown, they became the proprietors of a block of country of 18,000 or 19,000 acres, known as Tatala, and adjoining Gnomery, though partially divided from it by the river Culgoa. The trespasses complained of in the present action extended from October, 1878, to May, 1879. The plaintiffs' case was that the defendant's cattle used to trespass almost daily in mobs up to about one hundred in number over the best portions, the river frontage, of Tatala, and consumed the grass to such an extent that 7000 of their sheep which had been brought down from Bundaleer for shearing and for summer quarters at Tatala, had to be sent travelling for grass and water, and their other stock was deteriorated.

The defendant's case was that the Gnomery cattle during the month named did not trespass on Tatala as to do any damages exceeding 40s., as the trespasses were only casual, as stock will trespass where the dividing line is not fenced.

Mr. Simpson addressed the jury for the defence.

Mr. Davis replied.

His Honor summed up the evidence, and directed the jury that the question for their consideration was merely a question of damages. The defendant had paid 40s. into Court, was that sufficient.

The jury after retiring for a quarter of an hour, returned a verdict for the defendant.

INSOLVENCY COURT.—Wednesday.

(Before the Chief Commissioner.)

In the matter of William C. Edwards, a second meeting. Insolvent deposed to the accuracy of his schedule. Not having filed his statement under rule 20, he was directed to do so. Four debts were proved, and the meeting was adjourned.

In the matter of James Alexander Lyttle, a second meeting. Insolvent deposed to the accuracy of his schedule. Six debts were proved, and the meeting was terminated.

In the matter of Simeon Joel, a second meeting. Insolvent deposed that he wished to add the amount of a life policy to his schedule, and he was directed to do so. Seven debts were proved, and the meeting was terminated.

In the matter of G. W. Tunbridge, a third meeting. No debts were proved, no directions given, and the meeting was terminated.

In the matter of William Shepherd, a third meeting. One debt was proved, no directions were given, and the meeting was terminated.

In the matter of Henry Clarence Roberts, a special meeting. One debt was proved, and the meeting was terminated.

In the matter of Andrew Thompson Cochrane, a first meeting. No debts were proved, and the meeting was terminated.

In the matter of William Frederick Leeder, a special meeting. Two debts were proved, and the meeting was terminated.

In the matter of Albert John Upton, a single meeting. Insolvent amended part B of his schedule. No directions were given, and the meeting was terminated.

In the matter of George Selim, the younger, a single meeting. Insolvent was directed to add to his schedule. One claim was presented, but stood over. The meeting was terminated.

In the matter of Thomas William Gibbs, single meeting. Insolvent verified his schedule, and was directed to file statement under rule 20 within two days, and supplementary schedule within ten days. One debt was proved, and the meeting was adjourned to 19th instant.

In the matter of Albert Robert Gregory, a special meeting. Two debts were proved, and the meeting was terminated.

SCHEDULE FILED.

James Blacker, of Yarraman, Liverpool Plains, free selector. Liabilities, £1257 1s. 10d., of which £104 is secured. Assets, £22.

METROPOLITAN DISTRICT COURT.

Wednesday.

(Before Mr. District Court Judge Wilkinson.)

DEW V. RUSSEL.

This was an action for negligence. Plaintiff was a wood carter at the North Shore, defendant the proprietor of a waggonette. A son of the plaintiff's, an intelligent youth of the age of fourteen, was driving an empty dray on his right side of the road from North Shore to Lane Cove. Behind him, going in the same direction, was defendant's 'bus or waggonette, drawn by three horses. The driver, who was defendant's servant, was engaged in conversation with his lady passengers, and while so engaged the two vehicles came into collision. The evidence preponderated that the lighter vehicle, drawn by three horses, had overtaken the other heavier one, drawn by one horse, which was proceeding at a much slower pace. The plaintiff's son, who had charge of the dray, drew his horse to the left side of the road. The two vehicles then collided, and both were thrown on their sides. There was a conflict of testimony as to whether the two vehicles fell in the same or opposite directions, and also as to whether the 'bus struck the in or outside of the dray-wheel. Verdict for plaintiff, £7.

Mr. Want, instructed by Mr. F. Curtiss, for plaintiff; Mr. R. H. M. Forster for defendant.

PLENATY V. MACNAMARA.

Action for slander. The Judge suggested settlement, and the attorneys fell in with his views, and used their best endeavours to bring about an amicable arrangement: but all in vain. The case had to be gone into, to the infinite disgust of many, and the result was a verdict for defendant without costs.

Mr. R. H. M. Forster for plaintiff; Mr. M'Laughlin for defendant.

LAW NOTICES.

SUPREME COURT.—Thursday, September 4.

Term List.

DISTRICT COURT.—September 4.

Everson v. Wells, Davies v. Barlow, Buxton and another v. White, Rogalsky v. Godwin, Burt v. Holmes, Cox v. Cummins.

POLICE.

At the Central Police Court yesterday, the Police Magistrate was assisted in the Crime Court by Messrs. Renwick, Booth, Callaghan, and Solomon: and in the Summons Court by Messrs. Chapman, M'Beath, Smithers, Beaumont, and Terry.

Mary Hulpin, a respectable looking girl, of about 16 or 17, was committed by Mr. Booth to take her trial at the Quarter Sessions on a charge of having stolen a letter containing a cheque for £3, the property of Alexander Liddell. It appeared that on or about the 30th July Mr. Liddell forwarded from Cargo to Mrs. Liddell, at Newtown, a letter containing the cheque in question, drawn upon the Commercial Bank. Mrs. Liddell deposed that the letter never came to her hand. The postman could not say whether or not about that time he had a letter for Mrs. Liddell. Mr. Bolam, a publican, deposed that he had frequently cashed cheques for Mr. or Mrs. Liddell, and a cheque for £3 (produced) he cashed, but whether the prisoner was the person who brought it to him he could not say. Mr. Bolam paid it to his account in the Australian Joint Stock Bank, and it was paid in due course at the Commercial. Mrs. Liddell, it appeared, who was in expectation of a cheque, expressed to prisoner her surprise at not receiving one; and some days afterwards the prisoner left the service, which circumstance seems first to have given rise to the suspicion against her. Mr. Callaghan, who sat with Mr. Booth in the case, was of opinion that there was no sufficient ground for a committal. Mr. Carroll assisted sergeant M'Kay in conducting the prosecution; Mr. Vardey appearing on behalf of the prisoner.

At the Water Police Court, yesterday, his Worship the Police Magistrate and Messrs. O. Brown and Edwards, Js.P., presided in the Charge Court; and Messrs. Joseph, Senior, Charlton, Carpenter, and Stanley in the Summons Court.

Michael Buckley, on remand, was convicted of assaulting senior-constable Day while in the execution of his duty, on Saturday last, on the Randwick racecourse. The assault was entirely unprovoked, according to the evidence, and prisoner was sent to gaol for two months, the Bench remarking that the case was a serious one, and that they were determined to uphold the police under similar circumstances.

Eugene Feninger, on remand, was charged with being in the dwelling-house of Robert Cooper, of 27, Hunter-street, for an unlawful purpose—to wit, to steal. The evidence showed that prisoner was a French transport from New Caledonia, and had been in Sydney between six and seven months. He was sent from France to New Caledonia for coining. The case against him was considered proved, and he was sent to gaol for six months, with hard labour.

In the Summons Court a number of persons were punished for allowing animals to stray, &c., at the instance of sub-inspectors Johnston and Waters. John Thompson was fined 7s. 4d. for keeping a ferocious dog; Richard E. Smith and John Tally, the first was fined 10s. and 5s. 6d. costs, and the latter £2 and 5s. 6d. costs, or 14 days, for selling liquor at prohibited hours.

"NOTHING LIKE LEATHER."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—It is a fact well known to chemists that the astringent principle of the bark used by tanners in the manufacture of leather can be easily separated from its solution by the simple process of evaporation, and it appears to me rather strange that it has not yet been turned to economical account by treating the bark in the bush in a mode similar to that employed at the tanneries, and reducing the infusion to a highly concentrated form. Besides the obvious advantage which this plan would have in doing away with the carriage or freight of a vast amount of bulky and useless material; it would, I believe, be found that the bark when taken green from the tree, is more easily and effectually deprived of its tannic acid than when dry. Moreover, as the sap of some of the commoner varieties of bush timber is very astringent, it might perhaps be found profitable to employ them as a substitute for wattle and hickory.

A small boiler for generating steam, a wooden vat, copper-lined, and made tractable by being mounted on wheels, and a copper cauldron for evaporation, would constitute the necessary plant.

I suggested this scheme to a firm in the Northern district who are large purchasers of bark, and as they did not appear to consider it worth notice, it may be perhaps, that its merits are Laputan. Still, I cannot help thinking otherwise, and having no use for it myself, I venture to dedicate it to those whom it may concern, among the large circle of your readers. Yours, &c., W. J. FRENCH.

Malwerindi, Walcha, August 20.

THE TRAMWAY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Between the Benevolent Asylum and the Haymarket the rails of the tramway protrude in some places considerably above the surface of the street, consequently the wheels of vehicles, meeting the rail at a very acute angle, are greatly strained, and the axles run much risk of being broken, not to mention the inconvenience and danger to the occupants of such vehicles.

The Act 42 Victoria, No. 18, section 2, requires that the rails shall be laid at or about the level of the street, and the fifth section requires the Commissioner to maintain, in perfect order and repair, the metal of the street for the space of one foot on either side of such rails, level with the surface. The protrusion of the rails alluded to is in consequence of the metal of the street, for the space of one foot on either side, not being maintained in repair, and should any damage accrue to any one therefrom the Commissioner will be liable, and the public have to pay. I am, &c.,

Sydney, September 2. VERBUM SAPIENTIBUS.

Fatal Fight.—Late on Monday, June 30, Albert Wainwright, a farm labourer, died at Knaresborough, it is supposed, from injuries received in a fight. The deceased and a man named George Carr, brickmaker, of Knaresborough, while at a neighbouring feast, quarrelled and fought on the highway between Scotton and Knaresborough. While the deceased was being supported by a man named Usher, Carr is alleged to have rushed at and hit him. He fell heavily to the ground, and, being picked up insensible, was taken a distance of one and a-half mile to Knaresborough. There a surgeon pronounced him to be dead.

Dr. de Jongh's Light-Brown Cod Liver Oil.—Surpassingly Efficacious as a Restorative Medicine and Food.—Dr. Whitmore, Medical Officer of Health, St. Marylebone, writes:—"My own somewhat lengthened experience as a medical practitioner enables me with confidence to recommend Dr. de Jongh's Light-Brown Cod Liver Oil, as being more uniform in quality, more certain in its effects, more palatable, and infinitely less likely to disagree with the stomach than the Pale Oil. The practice which often prevails of mixing certain ingredients with cod liver oil, to render it agreeable to the taste, is highly objectionable, for we have it on the authority of Dr. de Jongh himself that anything which sophisticates it takes largely from its therapeutic value. If I were asked for an explanation of the marked success which for so many years has attended the administration of Dr. de Jongh's Light-Brown Cod Liver Oil, I should say that it is owing to its extraordinary medicinal, dietetic, and regimenal properties, and which are found to exist in no other medicine that I am acquainted with in such uniform combination." Dr. de Jongh's Light-Brown Cod Liver Oil is sold only in capsuled imperial half-pints, pints, and quarts by all chemists and druggists. Sole consignees, Ansar, Harford, and Co., 77, Strand, London. Agents at Sydney, Elliott Brothers.—Adv.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL PIANOS, With the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.

CH. GOUNOD. "Paris, Nov. 4, 1878.
"I have attentively examined the beautiful pianos of Messrs. John Brinsmead and Sons that are exhibited at the Paris International Exhibition of 1878. I consider them to be exceptional in the ease with which graduations of sound can be produced from the softest to the most powerful tones. These excellent pianos merit the approbation of all artists, as the tone is full as well as sustained, and the touch is of perfect evenness throughout its entire range, answering to every requirement of the pianist."

W. KUHE. "Brighton.
"I have pleasure in expressing my opinion that the Paris Exhibition Model Grand Pianofortes of Messrs. John Brinsmead and Sons are unsurpassed. The tone is deliciously sweet, sustained, and extraordinarily powerful; the touch responds to the faintest and to the most trying strains on it, and the workmanship is simply perfect."

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL PIANOS. with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.

EDWARD J. HOPKINS (Organist and Director of the Choir, Temple Church, London).
"I feel great pleasure to bearing testimony to the excellence of the Pianofortes made by Messrs. John John Brinsmead and Sons. Their tone is rich, powerful, and equal, and their Check Repeater Action most ingenious, successful, and valuable."

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS, GOLD MEDAL PIANOS, With the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' SIR JULIUS BENEDICT.
"I have examined Messrs. Brinsmead and Sons' New Check Action, as applied to their Pianos, and consider it a most ingenious and valuable invention, which cannot fail to meet with success."

Echo.
"The nearest approach to perfection with which we are acquainted."

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' SHORT IRON GRAND PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.

Illustrated London News.
"The 'Brinsmead' Works can supply 3000 Pianos annually. The French papers have been unanimous in their expressions of admiration of these splendid instruments. The grands especially have enchanted the Parisian professors and amateurs of music by their noble sonorousness, their enormous power, and the sympathetically voice-like quality of tone. The touch also is beautifully light, elastic, and certain, so that many pianists of every nation, from the Abbé Liszt downwards, who have tried these instruments, have highly complimented the enterprising manufacturers on their success."

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL PIANOS, With the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS. Morning Post.

BURWOOD NORTH.

MILTON.
A delightfully situated FAMILY RESIDENCE, and extensive improved GROUNDS, nearly opposite the mansion belonging to JOHN DAWSON, Esq.

TITLE, TORRENS' ACT.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions from the Proprietor to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, on MONDAY, 8th SEPTEMBER,
at 11 o'clock,
MILTON,
BURWOOD NORTH,
A MOST FAITHFULLY BUILT and THOROUGHLY well FINISHED FAMILY RESIDENCE of brick on stone foundation, with verandah and balcony, slate roof, and containing the following accommodation:—
GROUND FLOOR.—Entrance hall, 6 feet wide, off which are drawing-room, 20 x 14½; dining-room, 17½ x 14½; breakfast room, 14 x 13; and bedroom, 17½ x 11.
UPPER FLOOR.—Hall, No. 1 bedroom, 20 x 14½; No. 2, 19 x 14½; No. 3, 17½ x 11; No. 4, 14 x 13; nursery, 19 x 14; and linen closet.
The OFFICES comprise kitchen, fitted with cooking range, SERVANT'S ROOM, PANTRY, laundry, with copper, bath-room, water laid on, and scullery.
Detached are a two-stall stable, coachhouse and hayloft; also wooden sheds for cart and storeroom. The water supply is ample for all seasons; besides several iron tanks, there is a brick and cemented underground reservoir, which holds 10,000 gallons.
The GROUNDS, comprising 4 acres 1 rood 35 perches, are securely enclosed, and have three frontages, as follows:—
402 FEET to PARRAMATTA ROAD
472 FEET to QUEEN'S ROAD
402 FEET to QUEEN-STREET.
The portion in front and at the side of the residence is tastefully laid out into grassy lawn, flower garden, with green-house, orchard, and vegetable garden; and the residue is subdivided into two cultivation paddocks and two grass paddocks for horses and cows.
This is a very desirable and attractive family villa residence, in a delightfully elevated position of the popular and healthful railway suburb of Burwood, a locality where it is but seldom now that a property of this class is to be purchased.
The view from Milton is beautiful in the extreme, embracing Hen and Chicken Bay, the pretty undulating country of Ryde and Pennant Hills, Five Dock heights, the Parramatta River, and Burwood North.
Cards to view can be obtained at the Rooms, Pitt-street.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, on FRIDAY, 12th SEPTEMBER,
at 11 o'clock,
CLIFTON ESTATE
as described above.

These desirable sites are the very pick of the few now to be purchased in the delightful, deservedly attractive, and popular RAILWAY SUBURB of BURWOOD, only 5 minutes' walk from the station.
They are in a very select portion of the Borough, on the elevated ground south of the Railway, and the view from the CLIFTON ESTATE, on all sides, is unsurpassed for picturesque beauty, embracing the whole of Burwood, North Shore, the Parramatta River, the pretty undulating woodlands of Ryde, and Pennant Hills, and the diversified country westward, right on to the Blue Mountain Range.

The lots will be offered on day of sale in such a way that intending purchasers will have the opportunity of taking consecutive lots, thereby securing to themselves the quantity of land they may desire.

PLAN of the subdivision is on view at the Rooms, and LITHOGRAPHS, large and pocket sizes, are now ready for distribution.
Terms liberal—one quarter cash and the residue in equal amounts, at 6, 12, 18, and 24 months from day of sale; interest, 6 per cent.

TITLE, TORRENS' ACT.

FOREST LODGE, GLEBE.

SPLENDID CORNER BUSINESS SITE,
having frontages of
33 FEET to PARRAMATTA OLD ROAD
66 FEET to FOREST-STREET
with a depth of 92 feet on the East side, and a width of 40 feet on the North side.

This is the ONLY CORNER BLOCK of LAND now in the market on this rapidly improving and popular estate. Forest Lodge is now one of the favourite suburbs of the City.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, on FRIDAY, 12th SEPTEMBER, at 11 o'clock,
The above-described first-class business site, at the junction of two busy thoroughfares on the Forest Lodge Estate Glebe.
TITLE, TORRENS' ACT.
Plan on view at the Rooms.

By order of the Executors of the Estate of the late Mr. M. M'AULEY.

FOREST LODGE, GLEBE.
TERRACE of SIX DWELLING-HOUSES and THREE SHOPS, CATHERINE-STREET, opposite the University and near DURRELL'S HOTEL.
Also,
THREE ALLOTMENTS of LAND, at the rear of the above, fronting CATHERINE-STREET.

IN ONE OR TWO LOTS.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, on FRIDAY, 12th September, at 11 o'clock,
ALL THAT VALUABLE freehold block of land, portion of the FOREST LODGE ESTATE, GLEBE, next to the corner of LODGE-STREET, having 180 feet frontage to CATHERINE-STREET, on which are erected the following premises, known as M'AULEY'S-TERRACE:—
SIX BRICK DWELLING-HOUSES, on stone foundations, three have balconies in front, and contain each 5 rooms, kitchen, bathroom, and washhouse, and 3 contain each 3 rooms and kitchen. At the western end of the above are 2 SHOPS and DWELLINGS, containing each, shop, 3 rooms, and kitchen; and at the eastern end is a shop and dwelling of 6 apartments.
RENTAL, £278 4s PER ANNUM.
With the above will be sold
The residue of a lease, having 92 years to run, of those building sites, lots 4, 5, and 7 of section 8 of the Bishopthorpe Estate, each having 40 FEET frontage to CATHERINE-STREET, with depths varying from 115 feet to 124 feet, and abutting on the above-described freehold property. GROUND RENT for the 3 lots, £22 10s PER ANNUM.

A good paying investment in one of the leading thoroughfares of this populous part of the rising and rapidly advancing suburb of the Glebe, close to the omnibuses, and within easy walking distance of the business parts of the city.

Particular attention is directed to the sale of this property, as it must be disposed of in order to close the Estate.
Terms at sale.
Plan on view at the Rooms.

The TITLE to the FREEHOLD is TORRENS' ACT.

RICHARD YEOMANS, Esq., Elizabeth-street, is Solicitor of the Estate.

FARMER'S NEW CASH SYSTEM.
ALL GOODS AT WHOLESALE PRICES.

Lowest Wholesale Prices for Costumes. It is astonishing what may be saved under the new system in a single transaction. You have usually paid, say £5 for a Spring Costume. Well, you may now purchase a similar article at FARMER'S for £3 15s.

FARMER'S NEW CASH SYSTEM.
ALL GOODS AT WHOLESALE PRICES.

Lowest Wholesale Prices for Carpets. Are you buying them? Inspect the Tapestries and Brussels at FARMER'S, marked in accordance with their new system. Choice Early English Designs in a great variety of colourings.

FARMER'S NEW CASH SYSTEM.
ALL GOODS AT WHOLESALE PRICES.

Lowest Wholesale Prices for Curtains. Nice early English Lace Curtains, after designs by Talbert, 21s per pair; would have been marked 27s 6d under the old system.

FARMER'S NEW CASH SYSTEM.
ALL GOODS AT WHOLESALE PRICES.

Lowest Wholesale Prices for Cornices. Handsome new designs in brass cornices now opening. Also for curtain poles. Come and inquire the prices. Also for spring blinds. Every house should be provided with the patent spring window blinds, made and fitted by FARMER and COMPANY at wholesale prices.

FARMER'S NEW CASH SYSTEM.
ALL GOODS AT WHOLESALE PRICES.

Lowest Wholesale Prices for Billiard Cloths. New cloths will be required for many metropolitan tables during the Exhibition. Save your money by purchasing the best West of England Billiard Cloths at FARMER'S, at wholesale prices for cash.

FARMER'S NEW CASH SYSTEM.
ALL GOODS AT WHOLESALE PRICES.

Lowest Wholesale Prices for Cretonnes. Every one asks to see these cheap cretonnes. Six fresh cases now opening, some exceedingly choice goods at 10½d, French printed. What a transformation can be effected in a room with a few yards of cretonne. Purchase what you require at FARMER'S, and pay only the wholesale price.

FARMER'S NEW CASH SYSTEM.
ALL GOODS AT WHOLESALE PRICES.

Lowest Wholesale Prices for Prints. Quite a throng of ladies gather round the print tables to make their selections. The prices surprise most customers. The saving effected, by being able to buy a few yards or a single piece at wholesale rates, is noticeable even in prints.

FARMER'S NEW CASH SYSTEM.
ALL GOODS AT WHOLESALE PRICES.

Lowest Wholesale Prices for Costume Cloths. Some of the new materials are opening up, and large shipments will be to hand this week per Cyphrenes and Thermopylæ. In every item the difference is apparent. Wholesale prices are the rule in marking off each piece of material.

FARMER'S NEW CASH SYSTEM.
ALL GOODS AT WHOLESALE PRICES.

Lowest Wholesale Prices for Silks. Crowded counters are now the rule in the silk department, and no wonder. Every lady knows the advantage in buying a really good silk, by a reliable maker. Inferior silks are plentiful enough, and may be bought at almost any price. True, they are showy; but like imitation jewellery, they are easily detected, and are never satisfactory to the wearer. The attraction in Farmer's silk department is a RELIABLE SILK AT WHOLESALE PRICE. Ready money customers do not fail to avail themselves of the opportunity to purchase at such advantage.

FARMER'S NEW CASH SYSTEM.
ALL GOODS AT WHOLESALE PRICES.

Lowest Wholesale Prices for Sunshades, Ribbons, Gloves, Laces, Collars, Linen Sets, &c. Small items, but things that run into money when you have several daughters to provide for. Economise in these, as in all your other purchases, by buying at the lowest wholesale price for ready money.

FARMER'S NEW CASH SYSTEM.
ALL GOODS AT WHOLESALE PRICES.

Lowest Wholesale Prices for Gentlemen's Clothing. Gentlemen appreciate our new system. No one can deny this who knows anything of the immense number of orders that have been placed in our Tailoring Department during the last fortnight. The demand has taxed our producing powers very largely. So me disappointments have occurred which were inevitable. This we have now provided against by large additions to our staff in the workrooms. WHOLESALE PRICES FOR CLOTHING TO ORDER EVIDENTLY HAS ITS ATTRACTIONS.

FARMER'S NEW CASH SYSTEM.
ALL GOODS AT WHOLESALE PRICES.

Lowest Wholesale Prices for Boys' Clothing. Where there are several boys to clothes see what a saving may be effected. Parents and guardians would do well to consider the new system, and purchase their Juvenile Clothing from Messrs. FARMER and COMPANY.

FARMER'S NEW CASH SYSTEM.
ALL GOODS AT WHOLESALE PRICES.

Lowest Wholesale Prices for Shirts to order. A new list of prices for gentlemen's shirts to order, in accordance with the new system. Gentlemen are invited to inspect the sample shirts and to note the prices.

FARMER'S NEW CASH SYSTEM.
ALL GOODS AT WHOLESALE PRICES.

Lowest Wholesale Prices for Family Mourning. In no department are the advantages of the new system more conspicuous than in this. It is true economy to purchase any requisites in Mourning at Messrs. FARMER and COMPANY'S.

Sole Agent.

A GREAT MISTAKE.—Many persons imagine that as the competition in the manufacture of sewing-machines is now so great and the prices lessened thereby that they are the gainer when purchasing cheap-made machines. These, we admit, answer the purpose for which they were made admirably, viz., to sell, and people find themselves sold into the bargain, when after a few months' use "the troublesome things" won't work. The first-class Machines are made for use as well as for sale, and are consequently of the best material and workmanship, will last for years, thereby proving themselves in the end the cheapest. Prominent among these latter stands the WILCOX and GIBBS' AUTOMATIC SEWING-MACHINE, the most durable and best for family or factory, and the only silent self-regulating one.
